Fire Kills 10 Race Horses At Wheeling

$50,000 Damage Estimated In Blaze At Downs Stable

WHEELING — The death toll of horses that died in a fire which swept a stable at Wheeling Downs race track was revised downward today to 10. Earlier, 25 horses had been reported killed.

Track Superintendent Mike Sampson estimated the damage from the fire Monday night would amount to at least $50,000. He said the fire would not interfere with the opening of a race meeting at the track Dec. 26.

Wheeling Fire Chief William J. McFadden said a careless smoker — maybe a stablehand — could have caused the fire.

After five companies of firemen — tired from fighting another blaze moments earlier — subdued the blaze, they probed the debris, on the premise that whoever started the fire may have been trapped in it.

Last night's search turned up nothing, but firemen planned to sift through the ashes once more today.

The horses were being kept at Wheeling Downs for the Waterford Park meet at Chester. One witness to the blaze said he saw about eight led to safety. It is believed that perhaps half a dozen more escaped.

The fire broke out about 8:30 p.m., and firemen needed about two hours to bring it under steady control.

No injuries were reported.

Owners of the dead animals were not immediately identified. Neither was the exact value of the horses.

President, Macmillan Set Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today that President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan will meet in the Bahamas Dec. 19 and 20 for a review of world problems.

Confirming earlier reports from London, the White House said Kennedy and Macmillan "have felt that it would be useful to have a further meeting to continue the informal series of reviews of the world situation which they have held from time to time."

The conference, which will be the sixth between Kennedy and Macmillan, is expected to be held in Nassau. The White House did not say so directly, but a spokesman noted that presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger is in Nassau today.

Brazil Plane Over Peru

Airliner Missing With 97 Aboard

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A Boeing 707 of the Varig Air Line was missing over Peru today with 97 persons aboard, the airline reported.

The plane was bound from Brazil to Los Angeles. Varig said 9 of the 80 passengers aboard were ticketed for Los Angeles, the others for Latin-American points.

The $5-million plane carried a crew of 17.

Varig is a Brazilian air line. It said the plane was last reported over the Peruvian city of Pisco, 20 minutes' flying time from Lima, the Peruvian capital where it was scheduled to stop.

The plane had left Rio de Janeiro at 12:53 a.m. (10:53 p.m. EST Monday) and was due at Lima at 3:30 a.m. local time.

Varig said the plane reported to a Pisco station that it was 20 minutes' flying time out of Lima, and then a few minutes later came on the air with an emergency call.

The 707 was over a desert area at the time.

A spokesman for the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization said Raul Cepero Bonilla, president of the Cuban National Bank, was aboard. He had headed a 10-man Cuban delegation to a regional conference of the FAO. The Peruvian minister of agriculture, Jesus Melgar, also was reported on the plane.

It was scheduled to stop also at Bogota, Colombia; Panama and Mexico City.

The announcement came only 24 hours after another Brazilian airliner was in collision with a small private plane. That crash in Sao Paulo State killed 27 persons.

Varig is one of South America's most progressive airlines, with a fleet of $5-million Boeing 707s. It operates flights between New York and Brazil, as well as in Brazil. In the past year or so it took over the international operations of the Brazilian Real Line and started flights to Los Angeles.

Inspects 3 Key Installations

President's Encouraged After Crisis Bases Tour

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy and the nation's military chiefs returned "heartened and encouraged" after seeing the fighting men and awesome firepower massed in the Southeast facing Cuba.

The White House said this in a statement Monday night following Kennedy's 12-hour flying tour of three key bases—the Army's Ft. Stewart, Ga., Homestead Air Force Base, Fla., and the Navy's air and sea base at Key West, Fla.

For the first time since the Cuban crisis developed five weeks ago, reporters had a chance to see the extent to which U.S. armed might had been mobilized inside these bases.

Among other things, they saw: About 250 powerful rocket-armed jet fighters on alert at Homestead, advance command post for the Cuban operation.

Another 200 jet interceptors, fighters and fighter-bombers in position at Key West, only 90 miles from Cuba.

Elements of the 15,561-man 1st Armored Division, the Army's newest, which had moved swiftly by air and rail from Ft. Hood, Tex., to Ft. Stewart last month when the United States seemed headed for possible use of force against Cuba.

This was only part of the buildup which extended to many other bases in the Southeast.

In brief talks at Ft. Stewart, Homestead and Key West, Kennedy stressed his "great appreciation" and the nation's indebtedness for the contribution made by the combat-ready forces in the period of crisis.

At the Boca Chica Naval Air

Station at Key West, the President said:

"The reconnaissance flights with precision the offensive buildup in Cuba contributed directly to the security of the United States in the most important and significant way."

He said that "the days that we have recently passed through have been among the most dangerous since the end of the Second World War."

There is no assurance that in other times "we may not pass through other dangerous days," he added.

The President said it gives him, the Joint Chiefs of Staff, the Congress and the people the greatest satisfaction to see units of all the services "all working together in the greatest of causes, the defense of the United States."

These sentiments were repeated in the White House's formal statement after Kennedy's 2,500-mile roundtrip tour of the Florida and Georgia bases.

Home On Fairview St. Searched By Intruder

An intruder ransacked a West End home Monday night, but apparently emerged empty-handed, police reported.

D. W. Wallace, 889 Fairview St., told police the burglar entered his home about 6:45 last night by breaking a 24-x-20-inch pane of glass in a rear window.

The intruder searched the cellar, breaking several jars of canned goods, and ransacked a desk drawer, he said. However, nothing appeared to be missing, police said.

Disarmament Talks Again Deadlocked

Neither Side Shows Signs Of Changing On Inspection Issue

GENEVA (AP)—The 17-nation disarmament conference was back in its familiar deadlocked rut today after resuming with expressions of hope that nuclear weapons tests would soon be banned. Neither the Western powers nor the Communists showed signs of giving ground on the inspection issue.

After both sides indicated at the reopening of negotiations Monday that the Cuban crisis had created a new sense of urgency for progress in Geneva, their statements on nuclear testing put them once again on a dead-end course.

Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin expressed his willingness to sign a test-ban agreement, but only on Soviet terms, without any kind of international inspection and supervision demanded by the United States and Britain.

Tsarapkin contended existing national detection systems are adequate to enforce a test ban. He also rejected an American-British proposal for a ban on surface and atmospheric tests—policed only by national detection systems—while experts try to get together on the thorny underground testing problem. He said the Russians want to stop all nuclear tests now, not just some of them.

The usual impasse developed after the conference had heard a message from President Kennedy urging them to give high priority to a test-ban treaty "in view of the crucial developments within recent weeks."

Tsarapkin aroused British delegate Joseph B. Godber's protests by repeating an accusation the Soviet side has made for more than a year. He said the two Western powers do not really want a test ban.

"What they want is to gain military information about the Soviet Union, and that is espionage," Tsarapkin said.

Godber retorted, "We have heard enough of this. Let's not talk about espionage any more."

The conference is not meeting today. The next session is scheduled for Wednesday morning.

5 Killed In Crash Of Transport Plane

SMYRNA, Tenn. (AP) — Five crewmen aboard a C130A Hercules were killed when the giant Air Force transport plane crashed on takeoff at Sewart Air Force Base.

As the pilot guided the turbo-prop aircraft along the main runway Monday, he reported power failure on a left engine. Moments later the plane veered off to the left, plunged to the ground a few hundred yards from the runway and exploded.

The huge, black mushroom of smoke was seen as far as 15 miles away in Nashville.

Only the plane's large tail section remained intact.

Miss Smith Claims She 'Covered Up' In City Fund Shortage

But Brokaw Says Clerk Asked Time

Fired Water Office Employee To Try To Involve Robinson

By GLENN WAIGHT
Testimony began today at Lisbon in the trial of Miss Roberta Smith, ex-water department clerk accused of embezzlement of $23,841 but who claims she "covered up" fund shortages at the request of her superior, the late Frank Robinson.

Robert Lippincott of Poland, a state examiner, took the stand today in Common Pleas Court as Prosecutor William Brokaw opened his case against the 37-year-old former chief clerk.

Indicted In April

Miss Smith was indicted in April on a charge of embezzling and converting to her own use city water and sewer collections totaling $23,841 in the period between May 1, 1959, and Nov. 28, 1961.

In his opening statement Monday afternoon, Brokaw said Miss Smith had gone to Lippincott after he had uncovered shortages and asked to be given a chance to make up the money before he ended the audit.

However, Atty. Frank Springer of East Palestine, defense counsel, told the panel of three men and nine women in his opening statement that she had discovered money missing from the department safe in 1959 and had been told to cover up the loss by Mr. Robinson, then head of the department. Mr. Robinson died in July 1961.

Procedures Outlined

Brokaw yesterday afternoon told of the operation of the department collection which he said were under the direction of Miss Smith, who had worked there since 1956.

Brokaw said collections on water and sewer bills were generally made by two women clerks. They turned the money over to Miss Smith, who was responsible for the funds and for keeping records and depositing money to the city accounts.

These records included the cash sheets or plain white papers listing collections for set periods, the cash books or the ledgers listing these collections, and the consumer records, or accounts of consumer bills and payments.

Audit Starts In 1961

Lippincott began in July 1961 a routine audit of city records, including the auditor's office, Municipal Court, water department and other offices, Brokaw went on.

The examiner in checking the books discovered a $294 over-

Army To Raise Draft Calls For 6 Months

WASHINGTON (AP)—For the next six months draft calls will be raised to add 20,000 to the Army's ranks by June 30.

The Defense Department authorized Monday the temporary increase in the Army's manpower from the previously planned 960,000 to 980,000.

The increase, an announcement said, is intended to help offset the loss of trained personnel as the service of draftees called up in the Berlin crisis buildup a year ago expires.

The draft quota for this month is 4,000. For December it is 6,000. An increase in monthly quotas up to 8,000 appears possible.

The high point in draft calls during the Berlin crisis came in September 1961 when the quota was 25,000.

No Softening Of Castro's Stand

Mikoyan Says Soviet, U.S. Differ Sharply Over Cuba

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan said Monday night that sharp differences over Cuba still exist between the United States and the Soviet Union. He indicated there was no softening of Fidel Castro's stand.

The Kremlin troubleshooter talked to newsmen after attending a dinner acting Secretary-General U Thant gave for U.S. and Soviet negotiators on the Cuban crisis. Mikoyan returned to New York Monday after a 24-day visit to Havana.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, who attended the dinner, said he expects to resume discussions on Cuba Wednesday with Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov. He said he expected the meeting to be "quite important."

Mikoyan said "very sharp questions" were discussed at the dinner with Stevenson and John J. McCloy, head of President Kennedy's Cuban coordinating committee.

"But there was no quarreling," the Soviet leader said smilingly. Mikoyan said the possibility of his going to Washington for a meeting with President Kennedy was not discussed. The Soviets earlier were said to have put out feelers concerning a White House visit for Mikoyan.

In his talk with newsmen Mikoyan came out strongly for Castro's five-point demands, including U.S. withdrawal from the Guantanamo naval base and an end to the U.S. economic boycott of Cuba. Stevenson said the Castro demands were not discussed at the dinner.

Mikoyan also praised the Cuban government's offer to allow U.N. inspection of Soviet withdrawal of offensive weapons from Cuba in return for the dismantling—under U.N. inspection—of bases in the United States, Puerto Rico and elsewhere from which anti-Castro exiles are operating against the Cuban regime.

The State Department brushed off the Cuban proposal. U.S. officials said privately the Kennedy administration would make no such concessions to get fulfillment of Soviet Premier Khrushchev's agreement for U.N. inspection of Cuba.

Thant was reported urging the United States and the Soviet Union to go before the Security Council with a joint statement closing out the current phase of the Cuban crisis.

Informed sources said Thant envisaged a U.S.-Soviet statement noting removal of Soviet missiles from Cuba, the promise to pull out Soviet jet bombers and the end of the U.S. naval blockade.

State Finds Span Needed In Sunnyside

The long battle by Sunnyside resident for erection of an overpass to link two sections of W. 9th St., which became a dead end with construction of a new freeway, took a big step forward today with Mayor Bert H. Goodballet's announcement that the State Highway Department has recommended construction to the Bureau of Public Roads.

Mayor Goodballet was advised by State Highway Director E. S. Preston that the department has completed an economic study "which indicates the proposed bridge can be justified from anticipated traffic use."

The director said the highway department has forwarded the results of its study to the federal agency along with a recommendation the bridge be constructed.

"On receipt of approval from the BPR, we will be in a position to further progress construction of this bridge," Preston wrote the mayor.

Mayor Goodballet said he will ask Rep. Wayne L. Hayes, 18th District congressman, to push for approval of the project by the federal agency.

Confusion Reigns

Legislature's Aid Sought In Sunday Closing Issue

By The Associated Press
City officials and businessmen, who appear to be more confused by the day over what to do about Ohio's Sunday closing laws, have begun turning to the legislature for help.

In Lancaster, the city council authorized preparation of a resolution to the General Assembly to either clarify or repeal the laws.

In Springfield, a hurriedly-formed small businessmen's association said it has received assurances from lawmakers that the issue would go into the legislative hopper early in the session convening Jan. 7 and with that assurance asked the Springfield City Commission to declare a moratorium on enforcement.

Springfield Law Director Thomas J. Veskauf had said earlier that the laws should be enforced, to the letter, but he said he will not ask for the enforcement until after he completes a thorough study of past court decisions in an attempt to determine what items can be classified as essential.

John Schuler, a Springfield bakery operator and a spokesman for the association, which he said was formed Friday, said 137 small businessmen signed the petition. He said the association only asked for a moratorium until the legislature is given a chance to act on the matter. The commission indicated it would act on the petition at a later meeting.

But while some communities continue to talk about the laws, others are cracking down.

In Mansfield, police made three arrests Monday as the result of investigations Sunday.

$29,750 Low Bid For New Fire Pumper

Offers Range To $35,333; Board To Consider Proposals

Five offers ranging from $29,750 to $35,333 were taken under advisement when the Board of Control opened bids Monday afternoon to purchase a 1,000-gallon pumper for the fire department.

Only $65 separated three of the offers while the remaining two exceeded the $30,000 bond issue authorized by City Council to finance the purchase.

Composed of Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety - Service Director Robert Owen, the board voted to take the bids under consideration to allow time to tabulate the bids and compare them with the city's comprehensive specifications.

The apparent low offer was submitted by the Sutphen Fire Equipment Co. of Columbus which asked $29,750 for a triple combination pumper manufactured by Peter Pirsch & Sons Co. of Kenosha, Wis.

As an alternate, it offered a four-wheel drive unit at $27,850.

The Fire Equipment Sales Co. of Pittsburgh offered to supply a Ward LaFrance pumper with a Hall-Scott engine for $29,809, along with the services of a delivery engineer.

In its offer, the Pittsburgh firm said it would send a factory engineer to the city at the end of six months and a year to make any adjustments necessary at no cost to the city.

As alternates, the firm said it would supply the same truck with a Roline Waukesha motor for $29,309 or with a 145-GZ Waukesha engine for $27,500.

The Pittsburgh company also offered the city several options on equipment.

If 5-inch suction hose is substituted for the 6-inch specified, the city can deduct $115. A deduction of $660 was offered if the city will accept cast nickel iron pump instead of bronze housing.

The city can obtain a 500-gallon booster tank instead of one with 350-gallon capacity for an additional $1,000.

Kennedy Move Gave It Boost

West Berlin Enjoys One Of Most Peaceful Periods

BERLIN (AP)—Four years ago today Nikita Khrushchev gave the Western Allies six months to get out of West Berlin.

The United States, Britain and France are still here, exercising their war-won rights of occupation.

Their presence is supported by 12,500 combat-ready troops.

The Communist-surrounded city is enjoying one of its most peaceful periods in years.

Berliners are feeling more perky than they have in a long time. President Kennedy's firm handling of the Cuban crisis gave their morale a terrific boost.

They know the threat of a Red take-over of the free part of the divided city has not melted away. But they breathe more easily in the belief that Khrushchev now really understands that the United States and its allies will fight if necessary to preserve West Berlin's freedom.

On Nov. 27, 1961, the atmosphere in Berlin was very different. U.S. and Soviet tanks were parked near the wall dividing the city. There was a stream of incidents along the wall and on the land and air routes from the West to the divided city.

The West Berliners were still dazed and angry from the shock of the wall. Police clashed with students who tried a mass attack on it.

Now things are much calmer.

There is still heartache over the brutal separation of families and friends. This gets harder to bear with the approach of Christmas.

Moscow's puppet regime on the other side of the wall has kept mum since Cuba. The propaganda machine no longer grinds out confident predictions that East Germany will soon have its long-promised peace treaty with the Soviet Union.

This pact was supposed to end Western Allied rights in West Berlin and cut out what Khrushchev called the "cancerous tumor" inside his domain.

Even after Khrushchev dropped his original six-month demand, the East German Reds kept up a steady stream of threats against West Berlin. In 1960 they said they would have their treaty "this year." But 1960 passed without a treaty. Last year they made the same unfulfilled prediction.

Since Cuba, they have scarcely mentioned the treaty.

No new time limits have been set by the Reds.

West Berliners, wary veterans of 17 years of cold war, don't expect this to last forever.

They reason that the Soviets are having to rethink their strategy after Cuba. That may take some time.

Maybe long enough for the Berliners to have a peaceful, if not exactly joyous, Christmas.

Teamsters' Loss In Legal Fight Tied To Revolt

CINCINNATI (AP) — Another legal battle concerning the successful revolt of 2,000 members of Teamsters Union Dairy Drivers Local 98 under James Luken apparently has ended with a defeat for the Teamsters.

After the dairy drivers voted to leave the Teamsters in August 1961, a suit was filed in U.S. District Court in behalf of the Teamsters local. The suit contended the dairy drivers' employers had to keep on paying the employees' dues and fees to the Teamsters treasury until the contract expired in March 1962.

The rebels, who joined the AFL-CIO after a National Labor Relations Board election, claimed all prior agreements were revoked by their quitting the Teamsters.

U.S. District Court Judge John

W. Peck Monday ruled in favor of the rebels and dismissed the Teamsters suit.

2 Ohioans On Line Inspected By Kennedy

HOMESTEAD AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP)—Two Ohioans were along the flight line here Monday to be inspected by President Kennedy.

Capt. Norman L. Rice of Dayton stood beside his F84F Thunderstreak in the Tactical Air Command display. Among the Air Force Reserve commanders was Col. Donald J. Campbell of the 102nd Troop Carrier Wing from Wilmington, Ohio. The 302nd was one of the reserve troop carrier wings activated in the Cuban crisis.

Star Witness Testifies In Liquor Probe

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The special grand jury investigating alleged influence peddling in the State Liquor Department has heard its long-sought star witness, and Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy wants the jury to begin winding up its probe which began nearly two months ago.

However, special counsel Adrian Fink Jr. of Cleveland, Republican attorney selected on the recommendation of Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, has different ideas on the length of the investigation.

Following the secret testimony Monday by Chicago distiller Joseph H. Makler, who touched off the investigation with charges he paid to have his bourbon listed for sale in state liquor stores, McElroy asked that the probe be speeded up so it could be completed by the end of the year.

Fink, however, said that a thorough job might take a couple of months or more. He added that he would take the responsibility for an extended probe.

McElroy, Fink and Fink's aide, John Manos of Cleveland, conferred for several hours Monday after the regular jury session had recessed. All that McElroy would say was discussed was "strategy."

Earlier the attorney general said Fink cannot take the responsibility for an extended investigation.

"He keeps saying he is going to have a thorough investigation. He doesn't care how much it costs."

McElroy said the $25,000 provided for the investigation is about gone and he is reluctant to ask for more, especially when Fink could speed up the probe by using assistants of McElroy for routine work.

It is not known when the jury will recess for the Christmas holidays, but Fink has said he plans a Caribbean cruise during that period.

Auto Catches Afire En Route To Garage

An auto being driven to a garage for repairs caught fire before reaching its destination Monday at 6:15 p.m., causing some $200 damage, according to Wells-ville firemen.

The 1955 sedan, owned by William Pullie Jr., 1753 Buckeye Ave., was being driven by Phil Hayes, 452 1st Ave., East Liverpool, firemen said. It was at Pine Alley and Commerce St.

The fire, apparently caused by gasoline leaking from a fuel line, burned off all the wiring and damaged some metal parts.

Newell Girl Hurt In Fall

A Newell area girl hurt in a fall at school was admitted Monday to City Hospital, where three other area residents were treated and released after separate mishaps.

Loretta Wickham, 8, daughter of Mrs. Florence Wickham of New Cumberland R.D. 2, was in "good" condition with a fractured right forearm received in a fall from a 3-foot-high wall at Jefferson School at Newell.

James R. Goodwin, 930 May St., was treated last night for lacerations of the scalp received in a fall on gravel while crossing a road.

James Rodgers, 28, of Price St. was treated yesterday morning for injuries to the left hand received when caught between a truck and a tree.

Edward Pope, 38, of New Cumberland R.D., employed at Hillcrest Farms, suffered bruises of the ribs when struck by a wrench handle at work.

Ex-Premier Dies

PARIS (AP)—Albert Sarraut, 90, who served briefly as French premier before World War II, died Monday. He previously had held ministries in several governments and had been governor-general of Indochina from 1911 to 1914 and from 1916 to 1919.

4 Students Die, 3 Pennsylvanians Hurt In Crash

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—Four college students, hurrying back to school after the Thanksgiving vacation, and three Pennsylvanians heading home after spending the holidays with relatives in Ohio met Monday on a curve on U.S. 36 about a half-mile east of here.

All four students were killed and the Pennsylvanians were hurt critically.

The Highway Patrol said the students' car apparently went left of center on the curve and smashed head-on into the east-bound camper-pickup truck.

Killed were Bruce Seeman, 17, of Damascus (Mahoning and Columbiana counties), Ohio, Gary

W. Hartle, 19, of Rt. 1, Shippenville, Pa.; Tom Switzer, 18, of Knox, Pa., and Anthony Lowry, 20, of Youngstown, believed to be the driver of the car.

All four were students at Urbana Junior College at Urbana, Ohio.

Reported in critical condition were Andrew Marenchin, 58, of Rt. 2, West Middlesex, Pa.; his wife, Mary, 52, and Mrs. Anna Foltz, 58, of Rt. 2, Sharpsville, Pa.

The injured persons had been visiting relatives in West Milton, a Miami County community northwest of Dayton.

A majority in a election is more than half the total votes cast for all the candidates for that particular office. A plurality is an excess of votes over the number for the next opponent.

Ice-proofs your fuel line automatically with every tankful! No need for anti-icers in any Ohio weather! No extra cost!

FUEL LINE FREEZE-UP CAN STOP YOU COLD. When fuel line freeze-up happens, your car will not run until your fuel line thaws. Chances are you're stuck until the tow truck comes. Your very first tankful of Boron with Ice-gard protects you against a frozen fuel line. And continuous use of Boron with Ice-gard gives you positive protection even in Ohio's coldest weather.

HOW BORON WITH ICE-GARD STOPS FUEL LINE FREEZE-UP! In freezing weather, water condensed from the air in your gas tank can settle in the low points in your fuel line and freeze solid. Fuel can't get through to your engine. That stops you cold. But the special Ice-gard ingredient in Boron lowers the freezing point of water. Ice can't form so fuel flows freely!

BORON WITH ICE-GARD ELIMINATES NEED FOR ANTI-ICERS. For years drivers have protected themselves against a frozen fuel line by adding anti-icers to their gas tanks. Regular use of Boron with Ice-gard makes this unnecessary. Boron with Ice-gard ice-proofs your fuel line automatically. Protection is built-in so you always have it when you need it. And you get it at no extra cost.

It Might Be Almost Funny

If it hadn't happened, Americans couldn't have believed it was possible — the way the Soviet Union, caught red-handed while turning Cuba into an arsenal, turned the tables on the United States government and begged it down in a chewing match over international rights.

The latest and surely the most fantastic point to be raised is whether the United States has a right to let any part of its territory, Puerto Rico and "other sites" be used for training camps for Cuban exiles. This is an attempt to take away one of the few remaining hopes of the Cuban exiles.

The United States has said through its chief executive it will not invade Cuba. It has said through its chief executive it will not help Cuban refugees go back to Cuba. It is not even letting Cubans flee from Castro through Guantanamo; it is holding them there for an indeterminate fate.

And now it is going to be pressured by the past masters of Marxist dialectics to discuss whether a Cuban opposed to Castro should be prevented from taking part in any organized effort to oust Castro.

THIS IS ridiculous.

When President Kennedy blew the whistle on the arms buildup in Cuba, he made no offer to negotiate. He announced he had ordered a naval blockade to keep more arms from coming to Cuba and delivered an ultimatum about removing the arms already there.

Anything To Beat The Reds

If India and Pakistan had settled their standoff over Kashmir, Chinese aggression would be less terrifying as a military threat.

As long as India and Pakistan are in a standoff, India will have two fronts and two opponents. Pakistanis will look upon every weapon sent to India by the United States as a threat to their security.

With this in mind, Pakistan spokesmen have been saying what they think they are expected to say about military aid to their enemy. They are regarding it as close to an unfriendly act against Pakistan, though they assuredly know this is untrue.

They are insisting that Pakistan will follow a neutralist policy, taking help from whichever side offers it the best deal. This means it will take help from the Soviet Union if necessary to make the United States and Britain give them the same help they have begun to give to India.

IT MEANS Pakistan will do what the Indians were willing to do when they solicited help from the Soviet Union to cope with the threat from Red China — practice coercion.

There are no eternal friends, no eternal enemies, not even eternal neutralists in international power politics, point out the Pakistanis. There are only shifts of circumstances — and at this instant the shift has given India so much to worry about with China that it has no time to threaten Pakistan.

This is Pakistan's chance, therefore, to force a settlement in Kashmir. It will take help wherever it can find it — even from the Soviet Union, if necessary, but preferably from the United States, Great Britain or anywhere else.

This is utter realism in international politics. It is the quintessence of cynicism. To Americans, who like to think better of politics, it is a repudiation of decency and an affront to the American good will that has poured upward of two billion dollars into Pakistan.

Absolutely!

Something that has puzzled me all my life is clearing up.

One of my earliest recollections is of being hopped in the nose by a playground bully who took exception to my political views.

To keep this from being done again by readers who might be equally offended I will not specify what presidential campaign was involved.

But when I passed on ringing truths I had heard at home and these clashed with an opposite set of ringing truths the other kid had heard, he, being a bully by nature, poked me in the knicker.

My puzzlement began right there.

It was as though I had been socked for declaring the earth to be round or mother love to be superior to hominy grits. I was stating the obvious, the irrefutable, the undeniable-inspired revelation from on high.

Later, I quit feeling this way about politics. I realized there was no monopoly on inspired revelation; that there were two sides to politics in a two-party system. At that point my puzzlement took on a new form.

Instead of being puzzled about me I began to be puzzled about others. Why, if I could see two sides to politics in a two-party system, couldn't everybody see the two-party system the same way?

This is what is beginning to clear up—this question of why some people cannot weigh one view against another.

It's something you can or cannot do according to the way you were born to be, like being good-looking enough to be in the movies, or not being able to carry a tune, or having brown hair.

It so happens that some of us are unable to see the truth lying always on the same side of every political division. We see it sometimes on one side, sometimes on the other and frequently we see it is not on either side but somewhere else.

In politics this makes us mugwumps, in-

He said he had ordered the U.S. armed forces to be prepared for any eventuality and made it plain this country would go to war against the Soviet Union if a trigger-happy Cuban made a false move.

Nothing was said or implied about dicker-ing with Cubans or Russians about anything whatever then or in the future.

It was this forthright attitude on the part of President Kennedy that inspired his countrymen and gave them hope. They did not believe Khrushchev or Castro had changed or were likely to change, but they dared to hope President Kennedy had wearied of appeasement.

IT MIGHT BE almost funny to listen to Marxist dialectics if the victims weren't the spokesmen for the American people. If they can be tricked into discussing anything whatever, all of us are lost. There is nothing to discuss.

The United States does not propose to be attacked from Cuba.

It wants all offensive arms to be removed. It wants to be sure this has been done; it wants Cuba inspected for leftover missiles, bombers and submarine bases that assuredly are under construction somewhere on the island.

And if at any time the United States feels its security is being threatened from Cuba because of new developments, it will act first and talk afterward and only to state its position, not to argue about it.

BUT COULD IT be that the Pakistanis merely have noted how India was able to kick the United States in the teeth, then scream for help and get not only more U.S. help but sweet forgiveness in less time than it takes to spell Jawaharlal Nehru?

Cynicism pays in power politics. Russia itself got all the U.S. aid that could be drummed up when aid was needed to defeat Germany. Germany twice has been put back on its postwar feet with U.S. aid. Japan and Italy were forgiven and restored by the United States.

If Pakistanis aren't worrying about hurting American feelings, it's only because they are realistic about power politics. When they need additional U.S. aid, it will be forthcoming. All they need to do is justify it with a promise to fight communism instead of India.

The Indians didn't even have to do that much to get U.S. aid, but now that they're beginning to fight communism they'll get twice as much.

To Culture

National Cultural Center Week (Nov. 26-Dec. 2) may slip away as quietly as Noodle Week, Doughnut Week, Cat Week and other nominal occasions for whipping up interest where no natural interest exists.

But National Cultural Center Week is serious—$30 to make a down payment on a center for the performing arts in Washington, D.C. All the money is to be raised by voluntary subscriptions. Congress says it won't dip into the U.S. Treasury for a penny, though it's recalled the Washington Monument was finished at public expense when popular subscriptions waned.

The truth is, Washington needs a cultural center. The nation's capital is a cultural backwater. But the truth also is that if it must depend on voluntary contributions to raise $30 million the project won't get off the ground.

By Truman Twill

dependents, or worse. It earns us a reputation of being contrary. We are shunned by sure-footed thinkers who proceed unerringly to the truth and stand there resolutely.

We are able to make enemies in both parties and friends in neither. We are not to be trusted. Treason is always festering in our mugwumpy makeups.

Moreover, on occasions when we do announce that we have decided where we stand our announcements are sniffed at. How is anyone to take us seriously when we waver and wobble like drunks walking on bottles?

Could we but share the blessing of a world where everything is a clear choice between good and evil, black and white, hard and soft, bitter and sweet.

They are the lucky ones—Those polarized fellow citizens of ours who can automatically skitter into position like iron filings whenever the magnet is passed beneath the paper. We cannot polarize without anguish. We are lost sheep, misfits in a world which demands that everybody be an absolutist.

It's beginning to clear up. I am absolutely against absolutism; that's my trouble. It's tough.

This and That

More than 50 per cent of the world's 350 million children receive no formal education at all, according to information released by the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

The "trading stamp," which is so popular in today's economy, was used as far back as the 1890's, certain dry-goods stores of that era being proponents of the system.

The first system in America for registering the births of babies was established in New Hampshire, which has records on file for the year 1640, soon after the colony was founded.

The controversy over a television company's selection of Alger Hiss, convicted perjurer, as a proper person to appraise Rich-by certain advertisers afterwards in canceling either contracts or of the bad judgment of the broadcasting company in putting Hiss on the air in the first place.

Maybe there ought to be an "executive order" issued—or something else devised that would get equal publicity—to enable the radio and television companies to rid themselves of the word "sponsor." For this is at the root of their trouble with those firms which, fearing an adverse public opinion, cancel advertising arrangements with a network that incurs widespread criticism because of a particular program.

Webster's new world dictionary defines "sponsor" as follows: "1. A person who enters into an agreement to be responsible for some other person, etc."

"2. A person or agency that gives endorsement to or vouches for some person or thing."

"3. A business firm or other agency that pays the costs of a radio or television program—usually a program that combines entertainment with advertising for the benefit of the firm or agency."

Now, the advertiser isn't responsible at all for the content of a television or radio program. He merely agrees to pay for the privilege of having his commercials presented to an audience that is presumably to be attracted by the program.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE for the most part think of the word sponsor in its dictionary meaning—that the company which pays for the time on the air has had something to do with the preparation of the program and somehow endorses everything in it.

This impression is widespread. Printed publications, perhaps to a lesser extent, occasionally encounter the same fallacious theory about advertising control of news content.

There are some readers who really believe advertisers bribe writers and editors or attempt to use economic pressure to influence what's printed. There are, for instance, readers who write letters to the newspapers and endeavor to hold the editor responsible even for quotations printed in interviews or in dispatches that appear in the news. Many a letter threatens to cancel a subscription unless the reporter or writer is fired.

President Kennedy himself engaged in a form of reprisal when he recently discontinued 22 subscriptions to the New York Herald Tribune which were for the use of the White House staff. Allegedly, the President didn't like the way the paper had handled some news articles on the Billie Sol Estes case and the stockpile investigations.

Yet last Tuesday at his press conference, the President agreed with the comment of Newton H. Minow, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, who was deploring cancellation of advertising contracts with the broadcasting companies because of program content.

Mr. Minow defended the right of the American Broadcasting Company to present Alger Hiss on its Nixon program and emphasized that networks and stations should be free from outside pressure groups, and also from "those few, fearful advertisers who seek to influence the professional judgment of broadcast newsmen."

MR. KENNEDY said he was in sympathy with the view expressed by Mr. Minow and by the network's vice president, James C. Hagerity.

Unfortunately, there was no chairman of any federal commission to say the same thing in behalf of the press at the time publicity was given to the action of a President of the United States in canceling 22 subscriptions to a newspaper with which he disagreed.

Mr. Kennedy has, of course, a right to read what he pleases and to subscribe to any publication he chooses. President Eisenhower didn't read certain newspapers but never publicized that fact or prohibited his staff from subscribing to them for the White House.

Advertisers, too, can be choosy. As sponsors, they don't like to become identified with programs that may antagonize the public and thus drive away customers. Some advertisers steer clear of controversial programs altogether for the same reason.

They may never tell the broadcasting companies what kind of programs to put on the air, but they also may never tell anybody their thoughts that cross their minds when they turn down a chance to sponsor a particular program.

The same thing undoubtedly happens when, for similar reasons, a company rejects some printed publication as a medium for advertising messages.

CERTAINLY the American Broadcasting Company had a right to present Alger Hiss or anybody else—whether or not he had served a term in Alcatraz or Sing Sing or any other prison. This might be considered poor taste by many persons watching the program, but there is no question about the right of a broadcaster or of a publication to make a mistake in judgment.

Since time immemorial, readers have written to publications in criticism—often canceling subscriptions—if the editorial policy or the reporting of news wasn't slanted to their point of view. Henry L. Mencken, famous satirist, used to reply in an interesting way to persons who criticized his writings. He often did it with a retort courteous of only four words: "You may be right!"

On The Right To Disagree

Well! They've Certainly Become Friendly Since They Found Out They Both Have Fallout Shelters

Why Should We Ease Our Boycott?

By VICTOR RIESEL

UNITED NATIONS

Soviet diplomats, apparently taking for granted that their jurisdiction in fact as well as fiction covers all the workers of the world, have begun bullying American labor leaders right here on U. S. soil.

Two such Russian officials, attached to the Moscow mission at the U. N., actually barged into a union headquarters in New York. It was on the morning of Monday, Nov. 19, that they arrived at the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA-CIO) national headquarters at 265 West 14th St. They showed their credentials. They announced they represented the Soviet U. N. ambassador, Valerian A. Zorin.

They got in to see General Organizer Teddy Gleason. They had some strenuous objections. They were not at all enthusiastic over the longshoremen's most recent proletarian action. They wanted it stopped.

In general, they objected to the dock hands' refusal to unload Communist-bloc material of any kind. Specifically, that morning they had in mind seven crates lying in the hold of a Black Diamond Line ship berthed at the foot of the 17th St. pier in Brooklyn.

THE LONGSHOREMEN had refused to touch the boxes. The Soviet diplomats explained that the cartons contained food which they themselves would eat, and a little more for distribution to friends.

Teddy Gleason was unimpressed. He observed, in language carefully chosen to match the diplomatic status of his visitors, that they seemed far from starvation. Our stores are well stocked.

If he were in Russia, he'd eat Russian food, he explained philosophically. So chance our American victuals, he suggested.

It was not only the food, they explained. There was some training material in the boxes. What kind? Well, they were not certain. For school children, ah, that was it. Gleason looked at them as though they were shippers suggesting a $10 pay cut. They left.

But they returned the next day. They had no better luck. They would have to tell the ambassador about this, they said.

Later, in a discussion with this columnist, Gleason wondered what would happen in the Soviet Union if our embassy officials tried to pressure Russian labor leaders.

OBVIOUSLY the Soviet's pressure is coming from the top. The Soviet Embassy in Washington has protested to the State Department against the longshoremen's boycott of U.S.S.R. and Iron Curtain bloc cargoes.

The Communist commercial trusts are particularly angered by the refusal of the ILA to handle such merchandise this season of the year. Usually they flood the United States with low-cost toys and Christmas tree ornaments for the holiday sales.

The State Department has contacted the Labor Department and, in turn, the latter has communicated with the national AFL-CIO headquarters. A few days ago longshoremen union leaders were asked by that national office to come to Washington with their counsel, Louis Ealdman.

They were requested to meet with a spokesman of our government "to discuss the program of ILA with respect to cargoes from Iron Curtain and satellite countries and Cuban trade.

A representative of government agencies concerned in this matter will be present . . ."

JUST WHAT the government has in mind, Gleason said ILA president Capt. William Bradley don't know. But they plan to continue the boycott, especially of Cuban goods, unless they're overwhelmed by topside federal pressure.

They have wide public support. Over 3,000 letters have poured into their headquarters. Furthermore they believe they are fighting an economic as well as political battle for the people.

The Sino-Soviet bloc plans to use Cuba and Latin America as bases for economic aggression by undercutting us in the Latin American markets. This could cost us tens of thousands of jobs. The Czechoslovakian Skoda works, for example, plans to build an auto assembly plant in Cuba for sales in Latin America.

The Chinese Communists have begun sending their labor and commercial people to South America to set up economic beachheads. Not too long ago a two-man Peiping union delegation arrived in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. It was headed by Tang Chang.

Oddly enough, he is secretary general of the national executive committee of the Chinese Seamen's Union.

They were greeted at the airport by the president of the Brazilian National Union of Civil Service Workers, who led a group including the secretary of the Brazil-China Cultural Society.

When the time comes for action, the Communists will boycott us.

Why, then, ease our boycott of their shipping now?

Nehru And His Isms

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON
India's Prime Minister Nehru is caught in some of his own isms.

This aristocratic but democratic man has picked his precarious way between idealism and realism, passivism and activism, nationalism and internationalism, neutralism and isolationism, socialism, capitalism and communism.

Now at 73, a philosophic agnostic, his road has been twisted out of shape by the Red Chinese. He must try to find a new one at the very moment when he seems to be aging rapidly.

Nehru, educated at Cambridge and far more at home in the English language than in any Indian tongue, moved most of his life in the shadow of two dominant men: his father, Motilal, a rich lawyer, and Mohandas Gandhi.

Yet, when they were gone and he felt most alone, he emerged as dominant as either. He became the father of India as it began its independence in the 1940s with problems of poverty and illiteracy as appalling as any in history.

He could have been a rich lawyer, too. But he went with Gandhi. Nationalism — Indian independence — became his life. To fulfill it he spent nine years in British jails for political activity and passive resistance.

He studied capitalism, socialism, Marxism. He rejected communism and for India sought a middle way between capitalism and socialism under democracy because of his dedication to freedom, personal and political.

For this the Red Chinese reviled him. He sought their friendship. They called him the "running dog" of imperialism. He ignored this and made excuses for their excesses, hoping they'd change.

They didn't, as their invasion of India showed. They just soft-pedaled their public contempt when it was convenient. There was no mystery about it.

Neutral Nehru was a menacing challenge. If India prospered under freedom it would make a farce of the sacrifices the Chinese people, also in search of a good life, had to endure under communism.

Nehru rejected organized religion with a skepticism that began early. But Gandhi said fondly of his agnostic disciple: "He is nearer God than many who profess to be worshippers" of God.

Yet this man without a creed—in India where Moslems and Hindus, living side by side, have slaughtered one another—sought and achieved a secular state where all men are to be considered equally free and freely equal.

This, according to his best biographer, Michael Brecher, was Nehru's "most notable accomplishment," although Brecher criticizes him for poor administration, lack of decision and a wide gap "between words and deeds."

His passive resistance against the British in India was not a way of life with him. It was only a means to an end, his only weapon, when the British had all the weapons. He prefers non-violence but will use force when it helps.

This implies contradiction in him. There is plenty of that. There is also hypocrisy. He who has preached peaceful settlements to others uses naked force when it serves him, as in grabbing Goa from the Portuguese in India.

Nehru sought to avoid foreign entanglement and the expense that went with it. In this way he could pour most of India's resources into its own development. This explains why he kept down the size of his armed forces.

This was where his idealism got the better of his realism, as the Chinese invasion demonstrated. He now wryly admits: "We are getting out of touch with reality in the modern world. We are living in an artificial atmosphere of our own creation and we have been shaken out of it."

Has he? Perhaps not. A fatal, final clash with Red China now seems inevitable.

After Nehru, what? No one knows. Perhaps chaos and a turn to the far right.

GRIN AND BEAR IT

By George Lichty

"Economics is a mystery to most people, gentlemen! . . . Our salaries going up while profits are going down should remain a mystery to our stockholders!"

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: As a minister who has officiated at more than 600 funerals I would like to add my voice to your disapproval of flashbulb pictures and movies at funeral parlors.

Such barbarism has developed because we have become apathetic toward our Hebrew and Christian teachings. We have permitted undertakers to Egyptianize our techniques of disposing of the dead. Instead of exalting the spirit, we, like the ancient Pharaohs, glorify the body. We lavish it with cosmetics and place it on display.

Too often a grief-stricken family, overcome by emotional strain, will go deep into debt for an expensive casket and all the trimmings. It's almost as if they are attempting to make up to the deceased for what they failed to do during his lifetime.

One day, when our values have truly matured, we will abandon these primitive customs which serve no purpose.—D.L.

Dear D.L.: Many thanks for your civilized letter. I agree that lavish funerals do nothing for the one who has departed this life. He neither hears the music, smells the flowers, nor does he see the satin-lined, silver-handled casket.

The living need love, kindness and understanding. The dead need only our prayers.

Blinded By Love

Dear Ann: I'm 22 years old and never have been so head-over-heels in love in my life. I'm walking on air, Ann. The man is 30, has beautiful wavy hair and a perfect build.

I want to marry him and he is begging me to say yes, but I am not quite ready to make the leap because of three things:

1. He drinks a little too much and sometimes forgets where I live, where he parked the car, where he put his wallet, etc.

2. He likes to job hop. He has no trouble getting a job but after a few months he becomes bored and quits.

3. He teases me a lot, which is very cute—says things that aren't true just to get my reaction. Later he tells me he was only fooling.

I'm willing to overlook his faults because I know nobody is perfect. He is the most exciting man who ever lived. He says marriage will change him. Will it?—IVORY.

Dear Ivory: Congratulations—an offer of marriage from a job-hopping lush with a faulty memory.

Marriage won't change him but it will change you. You won't find him so thrilling when he forgets to bring home the pay check. The teasing and spells of unemployment won't be so cute when you have children to feed and doctor bills to pay. If you want a thoroughly messed up life go ahead and marry a guy because his hair is wavy.

London Heard From

Dear Ann: I was delighted when you told off that smart-aleck, 12-year-old who signed herself "Well-Mannered Girl". She complained that dining at home was becoming unpleasant because her parents talked with food in their mouths.

I was not born in this country so perhaps I have no right to speak but I am appalled at the number of American youngsters who are downright cheeky to their parents.

Since the 12-year-old seemed preoccupied with manners I should like to point out that a person of taste is satisfied that he knows how to conduct himself. He does not pose as a model of perfection nor does he burden others with his display of knowledge.

The epitome of good manners is to make those around us comfortable.—LONDON OBSERVER.

Dear Observer: Thank you for a fine letter. Have you noticed that American kids are less cheeky than they used to be? The permissive approach, happily, is disappearing—and being replaced by old-fashioned discipline.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Watchman's Shotgun Blast Wounds Pair

CLEVELAND (AP)—A shotgun blast fired by a night watchman wounded two youths who allegedly climbed an 8-foot fence into the yard of Aetna Road Auto Wrecking Co. Monday night, police reported.

Les Nering, 20, was reported in critical condition at St. Alexis Hospital with a wound in the chest. His 16-year-old companion, peppered with shot, was being questioned by police early today.

Police said the night watchman, James Potts, 58, of Bedford, told them he ordered the youths to halt and fired one shot as they fled.

Kingsley Taft 1,775 Ahead In Final Count

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Judge Kingsley A. Taft of the Ohio Supreme Court increased his plurality for the office of chief justice to 1,775 votes in the official canvass Monday.

Taft's unofficial plurality over Chief Justice Carl V. Weygant, incumbent Democrat, was 941. Taft is a Republican.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said a 900-vote error in Mercer County tabulations and minor changes in some other counties accounted for the increase.

The final official totals were: Taft 1,332,391; Weygant 1,330,616.

The canvass, conducted by Brown, Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy and a representative of State Auditor James A. Rhodes, showed no change in the top state races or the vote on the Sunday closing proposal.

$16 Million Heat Exchanger Pact Let

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—A $16,056,350 contract for development and construction of a pebble bed hydrogen heat exchanger for the Lewis Research Center's Plum Brook facility near here has been awarded to Vitro-Smith Corp.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, which runs the facility, will use the heat exchanger to simulate the exhaust from a space vehicle nuclear reactor for scale nozzle tests.

Gets URA Grant

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Urban Renewal Administration has granted Toledo, Ohio, $201,000 for acquiring 420 acres for Swan Creek Park.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruise —

Dear Heloise: When I label my children's clothes, I buy a large piece of iron-on tape.

I put the tape in my typewriter and type out the name and address of each of my children several times. This makes my own individual name tags and cost me practically nothing. Cut the tape apart and iron it on the garment.

I use these handy name tags on children's coats, sweaters, etc. This method eliminates hand sewing name tags, as these tags can be ironed on so easily and quickly. They last for several years on washable articles and on those that must be dry cleaned.

ELSIE LACOUR

DEAR HELOISE: I read your column regularly, and I followed your hint to use nylon net as a dish cloth.

Since you ask for further hints, I found the net very handy as a fine strainer . . . since my metal ones tend to rust and the plastic ones are not fine enough.

Also since my husband prefers loose tea, I take a large square of the net and fold it to make several layers of thickness. I then fold it like an envelope and fill it with tea and close it with a pin or a couple of basting stitches. This makes a large tea bag for a large pitcher of tea. The tea bag can be used two or three times and it can be refilled.

SALLY ABBOTT

DEAR FOLKS: By popular demand and for those of you who missed it, buy one-half yard of plain nylon net . . . yes, the kind you ordinarily make evening dresses from. You can buy this in colors or in white (whatever appeals to you to go with your kitchen decor).

This comes 72 inches wide so by taking your scissors and cutting it in four pieces you will have four 18 x 18 inch dish cloths for your kitchen. These do not have to be hemmed as they do not ravel.

We have found these excellent for scrubbing pots which have "goop" in them such as mashed potatoes, rice, etc., which ordinarily make a mess out of our daily dish rag. This cloth will not mildew, mold or smell.

Now girls . . . jar loose from 20 cents and get yourself four new-type dish rags. You will find it is worth 10 times that much.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: Can someone tell me how to clean an oil painting without damaging the picture?

EAGER

DEAR FOLKS: After some research in an art gallery, this is the best advice I can give:

I was warned by professionals that what will clean one oil picture will not possibly clean another! Many artists use different types of paints and also mix the types of paints used in an oil painting.

The gallery's advice was to take your oil paintings to a reputable art store and get specific advice for your special type of painting.

Many art supply houses and stores carry special cleaners for these types of paintings.

HELOISE

DEAR HELOISE: I want to give my profound thanks to the woman who told us how to get rid of excess suds when dealing with detergents.

It so happened, the day after reading her hint, I washed my white dacron ruffled curtains and ended up with a bathtub full of suds. I dropped some face soap into the rinse water and it was as if someone had waved a magic wand the way the detergent suds disappeared!

My heart-felt thanks to the unknown friend who saved me about 19 extra rinse waters.

WILMA SOMMERER

Thanks Wilma. Salt (gently sprinkled) works in washing machines when you've overflowed them with beautiful suds!

HELOISE

It's 'St. Looie'

Pumper

tion $100 and the truck will be equipped with a no spin rear axle for $143 more, the bid said.

The company said its bid included a 50-watt General Electric radio and a public address system with amplifier and two "bull" horns.

However, it said it could supply an 80-watt unit with a 25-watt amplifier and one additional speaker for an additional $275. The unit would be purchased from J. M. Pelley, who would install, guarantee and service it, the company said. Pelley is one of three assistant fire chiefs.

The Seagraves Corp. of Columbus said it would supply a Series 900-KB custom triple combination pumper with a 320-horsepower engine with 906 cubic inch displacement for $29,815.

As an alternate, the city can deduct $900 if it will specify a 300 horsepower, 817 cubic inch engine, the company said. A "no spin" differential can be added for $185.

In its bid, the Columbus firm pointed out the city has one of its units still in use after 30 years and pointed out fire trucks normally last 20-25 years. The company builds its own engines, pumps and body.

American LaFrance of Elmira, N. Y., offered a Spartan combination pumper with booster tank and hose apparatus at $32,320.

The high bid of $35,333.60 was submitted by the Maxim Motor Co. of Middleboro, Mass., which said it would supply a Maxim pumper with a 324-horsepower Hall-Scott engine.

The firm offered a reduction of $3,600 if the city will accept a 300-horsepower Waukesha engine.

An additional $660 deduction was offered if a fine grain alloy cast iron pump is substituted for the bronze pump, the company specified.

Council authorized a $30,000 bond issue on Oct. 15 to finance purchase of the pumper to replace a 32-year-old piece of equipment.

The city specified delivery within six months and its specifications included hydraulic type power steering with a six, eight or 12 cylinder engine, a five-year guarantee. The truck must not exceed 26 feet in length and 8 feet in width.

Secretary Left $1 Million, Home By Former Employer

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A question a secretary asked her boss 12 years ago was worth more than a million dollars to her today.

The question was asked in the Washington office of the Aluminum Company of America, where Miss Evelyn Mitchell was head receptionist and secretary to Arthur Vining Davis, chairman of the board.

"I knew Mr. Davis was setting up an office in Miami," Miss Mitchell recalled Monday. "So I asked him if he planned to take a secretary along."

Davis decided to take her. "He was a hard worker and spent long hours on the job," she added. "And he expected you to work long hours and work without complaint."

Miss Mitchell, born in Newport News, Va., attended school in Charleston, W.Va., where she studied typing and stenography. She went to work for Alcoa in Washington early in World War II.

In Miami, Miss Mitchell soon learned her principal job was to take care of affairs at Journey's End, the Davis home south of town.

After Davis suffered an illness in 1952, Miss Mitchell was seldom away from his side.

"He had become used to long hours of work following the death of his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Hawkins Davis, in 1933 and he liked to keep busy as much of the time as possible," she said.

After Davis suffered a critical illness in 1956, Miss Mitchell became his constant companion and looked after him night and day until he died Nov. 17 at the age of 95.

His will, filed for probate Monday, left her $1 million in cash and a palatial home opened only last May.

She also will receive monthly payments for life from the income of an insured trust.

Other bequests by Davis include $100,000 cash and income in monthly installments to Dorothy A. Given, daughter of his late second wife; $500,000 cash to William B. Given of New York City, her husband; $400,000 to Mary Davis, daughter of Davis' late brother, Albert Davis; $10,000 cash and $337.50 insured life monthly payments to Anthony Petrilli, his chauffeur.

To Agnes Flores, a former employee now living in New York, $10,000 and $150 a month for life; $375 monthly for life to Carl W. Voss, Davis' former boat captain, and other monthly payments for life to former employees.

Unnamed educational, religious and charitable institutions are to be paid at the discretion of trustees income and principal from 75 per cent of the estate after payment of the specific bequests. Davis' wealth has been estimated at $300 to $400 million.

Lausche Attacks Domestic Peace Corps Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The plan for a "domestic peace corps" might mean "we will have more guides working for the government than we have people to guide," says Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio.

The senator voiced his opposition to the proposal for a National Service Corps to work within the United States as the Peace Corps does overseas in a letter to an Ohio constituent.

He said the proposal is "another step in the direction of centralizing power in the present plethora of bureaus already existing in Washington."

Lausche cited the 1960 census figures as showing a total 2,147,663 teachers, social and welfare workers, recreational personnel, law officers and clergymen. He said they were all, in effect, "peace corps workers."

He then listed a population of 27,393,055 juveniles in the 12 to 21 age bracket. "Thus without the parents we have one worker to every 13 juveniles," he said.

Court To Air Number Slip Case Appeal

LISBON — A hearing will be held next Tuesday by the 7th District Court of Appeals at Youngstown on an appeal filed in connection with a Common Pleas Court dismissal of gambling law indictments against the Lisbon Salesbook Co. and its officers.

Judge Joel H. Sharp dismissed the indictments Dec. 14, 1961, against the Lisbon firm, ruling the law applying to the manufacture or printing of gambling slips is unconstitutional.

Indicted Sept. 21, 1961, were the company along with Martin Sufirin, president; Isadore Sufirin, vice president; Joseph Sufirin, secretary and treasurer, and Michael Scheidmeier, manager, all of Pittsburgh.

Judge Sharp ruled that the law improperly implies that such illegal manufacturing or printing is done with the knowledge of the printers or officers.

Two new attorneys will present arguments in the case, Atty. Theodore Saker replaces Atty. John Gleason, assistant state attorney general, who is ill, and Atty. Michael Kosach of Youngstown replaces Atty. William Moore of Lisbon for the defendants.

The appellate court is not expected to issue a ruling immediately.

Stanton Parents Will Buy 65 Uniforms For Musicians

Plans to purchase new uniforms for the 65-piece Red Raider Band were approved when Stanton Local Band Parents met Monday night at the high school in Hammondsville.

The new red and black uniforms are expected to cost several thousand dollars. The cost will be financed by over $1,000 in the Boosters' treasury, and fund-raising projects in the future.

A 10-member committee was named to interview salesmen. It includes Supt. C. P. Henderson, John W. Hutson, band director, Mrs. Lola Tolson, Mrs. Alice Pilutti, Mrs. Dorothy Davis and Mrs. Lorraine Patton, club officers, and Mrs. Beula Young, Mrs. Jane Henderson, Mrs. Martha Burgett and Mrs. Betty Stephen.

The boosters purchased new jackets and hats for the band in 1957, styled similar to the uniforms now used that were bought by the school in 1935.

Fund-raising projects for the new uniforms will include operating concessions at home basketball games and selling food at the District 8 band contest at the school March 23.

Nominating Group Named By Midland Charities Board

A nominating committee was appointed and a report on the recent United Fund campaign was given at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Midland Area Charities Monday night.

Charles L. Finley, president, appointed the committee to select a slate of candidates for the election of seven directors, or one-third of the board, at the annual meeting in January.

The committee includes Charles L. Smith, chairman, James Hartley, the Rev. George H. Bohlender, Homer Paul and William Black.

It will also select a slate for the election of officers in February. Under new bylaws adopted recently, the organization meetings are being held earlier in the year.

Directors whose terms are ending are Ralph H. Jewell, Ralph D. Pope, W. I. McInerney, F. G. Wilton, David D. Schwerha, Salvatore Glorioso and Helen Holavara.

The board decided it will meet Monday, Dec. 17, to windup old business.

Nile H. Wain, executive secretary, reported that additional funds and pledges have increased the Midland Area United Fund campaign to a new total of $53,560, or $8,000 over its goal.

The campaign ended early this month with 117 per cent of its 1962 goal of $45,471, the best in its 14-year history, and perhaps the best in the county this year, making Midland area eligible for the county achievement banner.

Midland won the banner in 1960. Steve Trbovich, campaign chairman, was congratulated on a successful campaign. He is expected to attend the Beaver County United Funds awards dinner Thursday evening at the Penn-Beaver Hotel in Rochester.

Jewell and Rev. Bohlender, the Midland board's representatives on the county fund group's allocations committee, will attend an all-day meeting of the committee Wednesday to review the needs of the various hospitals and agencies.

About 14 directors attended the meeting at Lincoln High School, the largest turnout this year. Wain gave the financial and petty cash reports and Black, the treasurer's report.

Lisbon Dairy Unit To Move

Extensive remodeling has been started in the Marquis Building at Lisbon, which will be the new location for Golden Star Dairyland about mid-January.

Announcement of the move, from the west to the south side of Lisbon's Public Square, was made today by Elmer F. Eiferd, president of Golden Star Stores, Inc., which owns and operates Dairyland in both East Liverpool and Lisbon.

A new, all-glass and aluminum front of modern design is planned for the building, including a ramp entrance to the combination delicatessen and restaurant. Two additional eight-foot windows will be installed on the west side.

Eiferd said the new Dairyland will have almost triple the floor space of their present location, and seating capacity of the restaurant and fountain sections will double. Walnut paneling will be used on interior walls of the restaurant and a lighter cherrywood paneling in the delicatessen area with an acoustical ceiling overall. Specially designed planter - dividers will separate the two areas. Booths and fountain stools will be upholstered in coral - pink leather and the vinyl tile flooring will match the room decor.

Built-in, as remodeling progresses, will be an automatically-controlled high-fidelity music system and incandescent lighting with rheostat controls for dimming lights during dinner and evening hours.

The latest in modern kitchen, restaurant and display equipment will be installed.

There will be a new baked-goods section for products delivered daily from the firm's East Liverpool bakery.

Eiferd said the same staff will continue to operate dairyland in its new location and that plans are under way for an official "opening" in January.

Ohio Girl, 18, Gains Honors At National 4-H

CHICAGO (AP)—An 18-year-old Washington Court House, Ohio, girl was honored for her skill with needle and thread at the 41st National 4-H Club Congress today.

Carolyn Dill of Rt. 6, Washington Court House, was Ohio's representative to the National 4-H Dress Revue in which 51 state and territorial winners modeled their homemade clothing.

The navy sheath dress had a high, rounded neckline and elbow length sleeves. A self belt caught two soft pleats in the skirt. All accessories, from wide-brimmed straw hat to plain calf pumps, were in navy.

As a state winner, she won the trip to the 4-H congress, a complete scissors set and the honor of modeling her costume in the dress revue.

charge discrepancy in the sewer and water collections deposited, and then began a more detailed audit.

Lippincott and Ray Wining, another examiner, checked over 90,000 items before the audit was completed in the spring of 1962, Brokaw said.

The finding of Lippincott showed shortages in six different "schedules", or categories:

A—$9,646 in cash sheets and customer stubs not on the cash books or shown deposited.

B—$1,959 in cash stubs not listed on the cash sheets or cash books or deposited.

C—$3,684 in cash stubs found in filing boxes not listed on books or deposited.

Delinquent Listings
D—$3,039 cash stubs or canceled checks provided by customers after being billed as "delinquent."

E—$4,543 in miscellaneous invoices or bills marked "paid" by Roberta Smith, not on records or deposited.

F—$1,264 in miscellaneous items received by the chief clerk and not on records.

At the end of November Miss Smith went to Lippincott with the cash sheets and told him she had no money for them, Brokaw said. He asked if she had the stubs, and she produced them, he went on.

Lippincott asked her if she had anything else and she brought a packet of yellow invoices and said she had received the money for them but didn't have it, the prosecutor said.

Asked To Sign Each
The examiner then asked her to sign each one that she had received the money, he said.

Brokaw said Miss Smith discussed the shortages with Lippincott and asked for a chance to make up the money. She also discussed it with members of the Board of Public Utilities, saying she would try to raise the money.

The prosecutor also spoke of shortages which Miss Juanita Burlingame found in her accounts when she was employed in the water office in 1958-59, and of her paying the shortages back to the city. He said the clerk did not take the money, but paid it back because "Miss Smith told her she had to". He said she quit because of the continual shortages.

Brokaw also said Mrs. Joyce Rose worked as a collection clerk in the office and found shortages attributed to her accounts. On one occasion as much as $300 was missing. "She was very upset," Brokaw said, "and Miss Smith said the money would probably be found."

Found By Another
The prosecutor said Miss Ethel Flesch, another clerk who had worked for a number of years and who did not ordinarily collect, sometimes found shortages in her account, once as much as $50, of which she paid back $25. Brokaw said Miss Flesch threatened "to blow the lid off this place" to Miss Smith and also threatened to have the bonding company come in.

"Remember," Brokaw said, "none of these clerks had the key to the cash drawers, only Miss Smith."

Springer declared that the charge of embezzlement against his client was "wholly denied", along with the statement of the indictment that she was responsible for the collections and safe-keeping of the funds.

Claims Instructions
"It is denied that she took any money belonging to the city of East Liverpool, or attempted to do anything other than what she was instructed to do by her superiors."

Springer said he expects to show that Miss Smith advised Donald Duke, present water superintendent, when the audit began that there was a large sum of money missing which she covered up.

"One morning in 1959," Springer related, "Roberta Smith went to work and found the door to the walk-in safe in the office ajar. This had occurred a few times before when someone forgot to shut it before going home."

"However, when she went to get the money," he said, "it was gone."

Advised Robinson
"We expect to show that she called Frank Robinson, and he indicated he knew nothing about what had happened to it. Then she said she would call the police, but he said not to, didn't want to do that, and told her to 'leave it in my hands.'"

"She did that," Springer said, "foolishly, wrongfully, she knows it, a victim of loyalty to her superior."

"When the loss became obvious," Springer went on, "he told her to cover it up, instructed her on how to cover it up."

Springer said she discussed it again with him on later occasions, but he was becoming old and in failing health, and once mentioned he would take care of it in his will.

Shortages Not Made Up
Springer said there were further shortages after that, shortages not made up in most cases, and Miss Smith continued falsifying the books to hide them.

He said she would withhold the cash stubs, then as new money came in, she would credit the old stubs to the accounts, and withhold some new stubs, always behind in the money deposits.

"Once started, she had no way of knowing how much money was accounted for, and this was wrong, we admit," Springer declared.

"This worried her, bothered her. She knew if she came out with the story, it would be the same as it is now, her word against another's."

Refers To Duke
"She was asked by Duke," Springer said, "if these things would show up in the audit, and she said she didn't know, she hoped not."

"When the findings were made, she admitted her error, turned over the sheets," Springer said. He pointed out others had access to the cash in the office, the clerks, the supervisors and even visitors could get in. He said she signed the invoices at the examiners' request, not in any admission that she had taken the money.

He said she did not get a chance to explain her position to the Board of Public Utilities which first placed her on leave, then dismissed her as of Dec. 1, 1961.

No Way To Repay
Springer said Miss Smith denies offering to "make up" the money to the examiner — "she didn't have any money to pay with. She only earned about $335 a month, lived with her mother, owned no property, had only a modest bank account which is now gone, and possessed no personal property of great value."

"We expect that there will be no evidence," Springer concluded, "to show that Miss Smith actually received and converted to her own use any funds of the city of East Liverpool."

Lippincott, a tall, balding man with glasses, described the audit he made of the water and sewer department when he took the stand this morning.

Miss Smith, a dark blonde who also wears glasses, was attired in a dress with a black top and dark striped skirt. She occasionally took notes or doodled as the testimony continued and at times whispered to her attorney.

Tells Of Routine Test
Lippincott told of a routine test audit of the department, books in which he found some over and under charges which he warranted a detailed audit.

He said when the cutoff date for the audit was set for Nov. 28, 1961, he asked Miss Smith for all her records, cash stubs and other items.

He testified that she presented the records along with eight cash sheets of which she said she didn't have the money accounted for.

"She also gave me some miscellaneous invoices in these records which I took to my office and then found had not been marked as receipted. I went back to her and said the invoices have no indication that you received money."

Lippincott said Miss Smith told him she had put a mark on them.

Writes Of Payment
"I said to her if you received the money, will you sign them to indicate that," he went on. "She wrote on them, 'received payment with accounts used to cover shortages.'"

Brokaw asked him, "did you say anything to her about shortages?"

"I did not," he replied. After the jury was seated by Judge Joel H. Sharp yesterday, members were brought by bus to East Liverpool to view the water department offices.

The jury includes: Annabelle Guy and Dorothy Keller of East Palestine; Nevada Laitsch, Floyd Shaw and Correne Thiemecke of East Liverpool; George Smart of Wellsville; Edith Caudill, Mary Gregg, Ruth Schmid and Edna Finnema of Salem; Freda Feldman of Salineville and Harold Roberts of Columbiana. Mildred Hussar of Rogers is alternate.

New Hancock School To Be Study Topic

Hancock County's South High School, now under construction in Weirton, is the only secondary school selected for detailed discussion at a technical conference in Washington today through Thursday, the County Board of Education was told Monday night.

William E. Kellam of Kellam & Foley, Columbus architects in charge of the county's $5 million expansion program, will present a paper on the design concepts of the campus-type plan building.

Kellam is attending the fall conference of the Building Research Institute in Washington. He designed the South High School in Weirton, the North High School in Pughtown, and the Chester elementary school, all of which are under construction.

The Weirton building was previously cited by the American Association of School Administrators as "an outstanding school building designed for a forward looking educational program."

The Building Research Institute conference provides an opportunity for architects, engineers, contractors and other professionals to exchange ideas and research findings.

The board, at its meeting in New Cumberland, accepted the resignations of two teachers and acted on various requests.

Resigning are Charles Phillips, mechanical drawing instructor at Weir Vocational, and Mrs. Mary Jo Andrasik of Cove Elementary.

Supt. Robert Hall reminded the board that one of three fire insurance policies is due for renewal Jan. 1. The policy due for renewal amounts to $3,825,000 and the premium is $11,589.75. The three policies, one coming due each Jan. 1, cover school property valued at $11 million, and the next policy to expire has been increased by $211,000 by the Pittsburgh Appraisal Co.

The board approved a request that Weir High School coaches be allowed to attend a meeting in Huntington March 22. Coaches from other county schools may attend if they request permission, Supt. Hall said.

John Larry Clark, band director at Newell, was authorized to attend a State Bandmasters' Association meeting in Morgantown Dec. 7.

The board also approved a request of the County Medical Society that registration blanks be sent home with students for the Sabin polio immunization clinics Sunday.

Next meeting is Dec. 7.

District Man Hurt In Crash

A Wellsville area man was injured in a two-car crash near the entrance of the Newell Bridge late Monday night, Hancock County sheriff's deputies reported.

Clarence William Butler, 27, of R. D. 1 was treated at City Hospital for multiple minor scratches of the face, contusions below the left knee, and possible glass in the right eye. He was released later.

Deputies said Butler's 1959 sedan and a 1957 sedan driven by Robert Camilletti, 31, of Wheeling crashed at 11:45 p. m. on Route 66 about 50 yards south of the bridge.

Deputies added each driver claimed the other was at fault and a hearing was held later before Squire Harry Lytton of Newell. As the accident report was incomplete, there was no information as yet on the disposition of the hearing or if any charges were filed, the sheriff's office said.

Camilletti was southbound, while Butler was driving north. Deputies estimated $500 damage to Butler's sedan.

Bridge

did not indicate what type bridge is contemplated but Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, in a letter to the mayor early in October, promised that his office through the highway department would co-operate "in the construction of an overhead bridge that would provide for both vehicular and pedestrian traffic."

At that time, Gov. DiSalle also said he would seek participation by the Bureau of Public Roads which helped finance the $6 million freeway.

The governor's pledge to the mayor was a followup to a personal inspection of the affected area during a campaign swing through the county late in September.

Early this month, Gov. DiSalle advised Don R. Gosney, county Democratic chairman, that he had instructed the highway department to start drawing up plans for the ramp to hook up the two sections of W. 9th St. providing easier access to the area.

Sunnyside residents have been battling for the ramp since January when a committee headed by James Grafton conferred with City Council.

Council then agreed to urge the highway department to provide better access.

The two sections of W. 9th St. became a dead end at former Chestnut St. a year ago as the freeway construction split the street and eliminated Chestnut St., one of the main access streets to the area.

New Fighting Expected In Border War

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Expectation of a renewal of fighting on the Chinese-Indian border in the coming weeks mounted today as the cease-fire went into its sixth day.

Indian leaders gave these indications of impending military action:

President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan declared India would show the world that Chinese "aggression does not pay."

The course may be full of hazards, suffering and sacrifice, but "however high the price, we are prepared to pay it," he said at a banquet Monday night for the visiting West German President Heinrich Lübke.

Home Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, one of Prime Minister Nehru's closest aides, told a rally: "We have decided to get the aggression vacated and if China does not vacate it peacefully, our forces shall have to fight it out."

Shastri, as quoted by the Hindustan Times, also said that if necessary India would use its air force against the Chinese.

Out Of The Air

By ALAN GILL

The Carrot-Topped Plutocrat No. 1

Has success spoiled our Lucy? Not on your life!

Here Lucille Ball has just bought herself into the presidency of the largest film studio on earth (Desilu), and she's just settled down as the proprietress of the most successful TV series of the day (CBS - TV's "The Lucy Show").

Alan Gill

She still flashes her chorus girl eyes at you, just like that cute little waitress down at the diner.

She still claps her hands, opens her wide, wide mouth, falls back on the sofa, and barks out the loudest, longest succession of ha-ha-ha's since Texas Guinan went away.

THE GIRL should look like a billion dollars, which is approximately what she's worth, and she does.

Asked how it feels to be a tycoon, the lady says, "How the heck should I know? I've only been one for a few minutes."

But a moment later, she's on the phone to Hollywood, talking running time with a director. Then she's dictating a telegram to Charles Boyer on the occasion of his opening night on Broadway.

Then she's hinting at negotiations with Warner Bros. over a couple of movie comedies they want her to do. And then, suddenly, she's back out of high finance and saying that this is her first wedding anniversary and her husband's a big nut.

"THANK GOODNESS," she mutters, "the studio can run itself. Up to an hour ago, I was vice president in charge of dusting. Now it's all problems, problems."

"We've got to take eight minutes—eight!—out of one of our shows, and it breaks my heart. Got to scoop it out of the middle of the big scene, it looks like. But that fool studio audience just laughed it up and—well, we're in trouble."

"In this one, Viv and I, we volunteer for an experiment in a space capsule, to see how long a couple of women can stay compatible in close quarters. Well now, with two women—you—just—know! As soon as I get aboard, I become Capt. Queeg."

HER FAVORITE episode? It's last Tuesday's, in which Lucy had (a) to play the violin and (b) to keep her eyes open during a concert that's putting her to sleep.

"I had one week in which to learn to play the fiddle—oh, badly, of course! But then I learned too well and they had to unlearn me. Worse still, we had to un-learn my teacher; we had to take the vibrato out of the man."

Her favorite movies? "The Facts of Life" (comedy) and "The Big Street" (drama). But: "It's comedy for me for awhile—at least as long as 'Lucy' is going. There's no deep-down desire in me to play 'dramedy,' though I'm not a funny person, really."

"Ann Southern is. She doesn't quite mean to be, and she gets kind of upset when you fall over, but she's funny. So is Bea Lillie, Carol Burnett, and Betty Grable; and of course my guardian angel was Carole Lombard."

"DEAN MARTIN's a funny man, irreverent. Zero Mostel is a floating cloud of grace. Gosh, he's funny!"

"And Anne Bancroft! Did you see her in the Broadway production of 'Two for the Seesaw'? I cried, she was so sad, and then laughed through the tears."

"I went backstage, still crying. I'd never met her. There she sat with a big hard-boiled egg sticking out of her mouth, and I said, 'What's your real name?' and she said, 'Anna Marie Italiano,' with a mouthful."

"I DON'T KNOW. The real talent for comedy is hard to define. Good comedy moments consist of things believed before they were done. They require a conscious loss of identification. You're suddenly that other person doing that thing."

But Lucy doesn't have to define comedy. She is comedy.

"You know what we used for the pilot film of 'The Lucy Show'?" says a Desilu man. "We used a still photograph of Lucille Ball."

Double-Barreled Birthday Party Due White House

WASHINGTON (AP)—Caroline Kennedy is 5 today and there'll be a double-barreled birthday party in the White House.

Brother John Jr. was 2 on Sunday but was unable to go to Cape Cod with the rest of the First Family for a long Thanksgiving weekend because he had a cold.

The word from the White House today is that he'll be able to go to the birthday party.

If it's anything like last year, a lot of fun and surprises are in store for the President's children and their friends.

Mrs. Kennedy won't let word out on plans for the celebration. It's a private affair for the youngsters.

Likely to join in the festivities are some 20 youngsters who attend nursery school with Caroline on the third floor of the White House. John Jr. has some friends of his own, too. His playmates, children of friends of Mrs. Kennedy, may also be on the birthday invitation list.

Offers To Be Studied

Wide Range Seen For Loader Bids

The wide range of prices was disclosed when the Board of Control received offers from nine companies Monday afternoon to supply a front-end loader with a backhoe attachment for the street department.

Mayor Bert H. Goodballet and Safety-Service Director Robert Owen took the bids ranging from $6,310 to $17,919 under advisement after opening the offers before one of the largest crowds ever to attend a city bid opening.

VERNON DELL Tractor Sales Co. of Calcutta offered to sell the city an industrial model Ford tractor with a front-end loader with one cubic yard capacity and a backhoe with a 24-inch bucket for $6,310.30.

As an alternate, it offered a Fordson super major diesel tractor with a heavy-duty industrial loader of one cubic yard capacity and a backhoe for $10,472. Both units would be equipped with power steering, it said.

Road Machinery & Supply Co. of Cleveland offered to furnish an International Harvester 1460 tractor with an International loader with a 72-inch bucket and a Wagner backhoe with a 24-inch bucket for $6,673.50.

AS ACCESSORIES it offered a full forward and reverse drive for $225; three-point hitch, $375; deluxe seat, $24; 7.50-x-16 10-ply tires, $35; lights, $35; cab, $275; and a snow bucket with one and an eighth yard capacity for $200.

Fellows Feed & Supply Co. of Steubenville asked a net price of $7,047.15 for an International Industrial 2606 tractor with an International 3000 loader with a 72-inch bucket and an International 3120 backhoe with 24-inch bucket. The total price was $8,991.50 but the firm offered a discount of $1,944.35.

AS OPTIONAL equipment, it offered an 84-inch bucket for the loader for $188.25; foot throttle, $19; horn, $8; three-point hitch, $186.30; and blinker light, $15.

Gause & Richey Farm Supply Co. of Lisbon submitted three bids, including two alternates which it said did not meet the city's specifications.

Using International Harvester equipment, which apparently is identical to that offered by the Steubenville firm, it asked $7,483. A two-cubic yard snow bucket would cost an additional $325, it said.

As an alternate, it offered an International 340 tractor with International Wagner 140 loader and International Wagner 1250 backhoe for $6,890.

The company said the tractor is smaller than that specified by the city and the loader has only a 1,600-pound lift capacity.

IN ITS other alternate bid of $7,850 for an International 2606 tractor with an International Wagner 95 backhoe, the company said it also didn't meet the specifications because of the transmission system and three-point hitch. The hitch cannot be used with the tractor because the backhoe is not the detachable type, the firm explained.

Harry Unkefer of Minerva offered to supply a Massey-Ferguson 406 tractor with a loader and bucket and a new MF 220 backhoe for a net price of $9,500.

The tractor and loader is a demonstrator model with less than 50 hours and the backhoe is entirely new, he said. The loader would have a 75-inch self-leveling bucket and the backhoe would be equipped with a 24-inch bucket.

The unit was listed at $11,300 but Unkefer offered a discount of $1,800. A one and seven-eighth yard snow bucket would cost $315.

Griffith Tractor Sales of Carrollton offered an MF 356 Shovel Loader with backhoe attachment for $11,573. An 80-inch snow bucket with one and seven-eighth yard capacity would cost an additional $280.50.

The Rish Equipment Co. of Youngstown offered to supply a Hough Payloader tractor shovel with a 1 1/4-yard bucket for $13,227.30. A 2 1/4-yard snow bucket is available for an additional $630. As an optional extra, it offered a Hough 4-wheel drive Payloader with hoe attachment for an additional $2,000.

The Allied Equipment Corp. of Carnegie asked a total of $17,650 for a Michigan Model 55-A Series II Tractor Loader and Michigan 110 backhoe.

THE TRACTOR loader was listed at $12,650 with $5,000 more for the backhoe. It asked $670 more for a 2 1/4-yard snow bucket.

The Ohio Machinery Co. of Cleveland submitted the apparent high bid, offering a Caterpillar Model 922 Traxcavator with a Warner & Swasey hydraulic backhoe with 18-inch bucket for $17,919.

It said it would supply a cab with windshield wiper, heater and defroster for an additional $950. Council authorized a $15,000 bond issue on Oct. 15 to purchase the loader. Owen said it would replace a highlift which is so worn it probably will not last through the winter.

USW Local Vote Ends Strike At Republic Plant

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Members of United Steelworkers Local 1375 voted Monday night to return to work, thus ending a strike that has idled part of the hot strip finishing department at Republic Steel Corp.'s plant here.

A union spokesman said the 174 men affected by dispute over a speedup order were to return to their jobs today. Efforts would be made to discuss the issue with management, the spokesman added.

The walkout started with 30 men in the strip mill Thursday and spread to other parts of the plant Monday. It stems from an incident in which a foreman told two workers to speed up an operation. When the two refused, claim members of United Steelworkers Local 1375, the foreman pushed past them and personally saw to it that the operation was speeded up.

The foreman could order the speed-up, the union contended, but added he had no right to assume the functions of the workers.

The company fired the two workers, charging them with leading an unauthorized walkout. It refused to negotiate the matter until the strikers return to work.

2 City Boys Penalized On Burglary Of Home

Two East Liverpool boys, 14 and 12, were penalized Monday by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin at Lisbon after they admitted an Oct. 29 burglary at the home of Arch Smith, 925 McKinnon Ave., in which $15 to $18 in cash, cigarette lighters and a wristwatch were stolen.

The 14-year-old was turned over to the County Welfare Department and his companion was placed on probation to his parents.

The judge ordered the 12-year-old to make restitution for half of the loss, attend church regularly and report on alternate Saturdays to Juvenile Officer James Miller at City Hall. In addition, the court placed restraint on the boy's time after school hours, continuing through the end of the term.

Wellsville School Problems Aired At Informal Meeting

The problems of Wellsville's schools, how they are to be coped with and numerous other facets of the educational system were discussed informally at a joint meeting of the Board of Education and school administrators Monday night at the high school cafeteria.

Each of the administrators was given the opportunity to outline the needs of his building and offer any suggestions for improvements. Supt. Lowell Myers served as moderator. After all the reports were heard, board members asked questions and a general discussion was held.

The problems ranged from the need for more classroom space, which seems to be the major concern, to the possibilities of more instructors and an enlarged program.

Discussion also was held on finances, the future outlook of the system and the type of education to be offered.

Following the general talks, the group then turned its attention to which problem or idea should be handled first.

The administrators gave their ideas and these were compared with those of the board. No definite action was adopted, as this was not a formal session of the board, but general patterns were formed.

Both board members and the administrators expressed appreciation for the meeting and it was indicated that another may be held early next year.

Both sides indicated ideas were presented which had never been considered.

Board members attending were Earl Bake, president, William Ferrall, Russell Dyser, Richard Grills and Charles Glass, along with Raymond S. Rolley, clerk.

The administrators present were Donald Lowe, Samuel Linger, John Mackov and Lester Bickle.

Subdivisions Report No Election Expense

Three subdivisions certified to the County Election Board Monday that they incurred no expenses in connection with levies submitted at the Nov. 6 general election.

Lawrence Zollinger, clerk, said East Liverpool Council had no expenses in connection with the 1-mill firemen's levy and R. Warren Ashbaugh, clerk of the East Palestine Council, listed no expenditures for a 1-mill street repair levy and the 1-mill park levy.

Chester M. Brautigam, executive head of the United Local School District, reported the Board of Education had no expenses in supporting a 6-mill operating levy.

Wholesome Inhibitions Good For Child

As often said in this column, desirable inhibitions developed early in the child's life are essential for his gradual acquirement of wholesome attitudes later toward others near his age of the opposite sex. He needs to learn early and constantly, and with little or no explanation, that there are certain things not to be done. The hope is that, if there are fine relations between the child and his parents, the child will have acquired a residue of wholesome attitudes to guide him when away from his parents.

TO ILLUSTRATE, let the tot learn early that it is not the thing to do for him and a brother or sister or playmate to go to the bathroom together, unattended by an older person.

Naturally, children from three to 10 or 12 sometimes roughhouse or wrestle in the parents' presence in sheer fun or warfare. At such times, the wise parent not only curbs these children so as not to be too rough or noisy, but teaches them not to touch or hit each other on certain parts of the body, always with the simple order, "You must never do that."

Thus in hundreds and hundreds of everyday situations, the growing child may acquire a desirable code of behavior toward another child's body. The objective is not only to prevent physical injury but to lay the foundation for good attitudes of decency.

TO BE EFFECTIVE, such continuous parental guidance requires that the parents' word is decisive, that the youngster has learned to accept "No" and "Don't" as final. In some instances, a parent may be so skillful as to offer the child a few words of persuasive explanations. But, as a rule, explanation would not only be futile but might be harmful.

It is of first importance for the child to know without doubt that "This must not be done". He will gradually see clearly for himself the reasons why.

In the meanwhile, his parents need to win his constant affection and esteem, so he might be readied to exercise when away from them the same wholesome attitude and behavior he learned to practice in their presence. Let love and restraint properly balanced be the watchword.

INDEED, THE CHILD who has not learned early the meaning of "No" and continued to respect this word has poor training for wholesome attitudes toward the opposite sex.

My bulletins, "Undesirable Sex Practices in Children" and "Love and Restraint", may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Hearing Set Dec. 7 In Annexation Case

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP) — A hearing is set for Dec. 7 on an injunction suit filed in Erie County Common Pleas Court against the proposed annexation of Venice to Sandusky. The suit, filed Monday by Raymond A. Remy, a Venice property owner, said an unreasonable period of time has elapsed since the original annexation was filed in 1954. The suit claims many changes have taken place in Venice since that time. Venice is part of Margaretta Twp. The annexation would involve 1,075 acres and about 1,000 persons. The Sandusky City Commission passed a resolution two weeks ago to complete the annexation by Dec. 31.

USC Must Dump Irish To Capture National Grid Honors

Wisconsin Hovers In 2nd Place

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
As has happened so often in the past, Notre Dame again holds the key to the national collegiate football championship.

Coach Joe Kuharich's lads from South Bend aren't in the running for the crown their old grads won eight times, but the outcome of their game with Southern California Saturday well could be the determining factor in this year's championship.

Southern California, with the Rose Bowl berth in hand and an unbeaten, untied season in sight, closes its regular season against the Fighting Irish in Los Angeles.

The Trojans, unbeaten in nine games, fought off a strong challenge by Big Ten champion Wisconsin and retained the No. 1 spot in weekly Associated Press rankings.

The national champion will be determined in next week's final poll of the season.

Southern Cal, which secured the Big Six title in a 14-3 comeback triumph over UCLA, gained 19 of 43 first place votes and 397 points on the basis of 10 for first, nine for second and so on.

Wisconsin (8-1) closed its season and won the visiting spot in the Rose Bowl with a 14-9 victory over Minnesota. The Badgers advanced from third to second in the rankings, just 37 points back of Southern California. They took nine first place votes.

- The top ten with first place votes in parenthesis:
- 1. Southern California (19) 397
 - 2. Wisconsin (9) 360
 - 3. Mississippi (12) 350
 - 4. Texas 299
 - 5. Alabama 230
 - 6. Arkansas 187
 - 7. Louisiana State 155
 - 8. Oklahoma 132
 - 9. Penn State (3) 129
 - 10. Minnesota 64

Brown Heaps Praise Over Quarterback

CLEVELAND (AP)—"The more I see of him, the more I like him."

That was coach Paul Brown's praise of quarterback Frank Ryan Monday in commenting on Ryan's impressive performance in the Cleveland Browns 35-14 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday.

Ryan, who took over the Browns' passing duties in mid-season as a replacement for injured Jim Ninowski, completed 21 of 33 passes for 284 yards and 3 touchdowns against the Steelers.

The Browns have gone back to the practice of sending in plays by messenger following an experimentation with the quarterback calling them, but Brown said Ryan "has been using the check-off (changing plays at the line of scrimmage) very effectively."

"He really seemed in the groove against the Steelers. I felt better following that game than after any in a long time."

Bribe Trial Continues

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Defense attorneys cross-examine today Joseph Green of New York City, who has admitted he bribed college basketball players to fix games.

Green told a Superior Court jury here Monday about his involvement in the nationwide game-fixing scandal after pleading guilty to about 30 bribery counts. He had turned state's evidence in the case against Dave Goldberg and Steve Lekometros, two St. Louis men being tried on bribery charges.

Green discussed four games involving North Carolina State College and South Carolina during the 1959-60 season.

Newell Has 6 Veterans, Opens Saturday

Vikings In Final Season; Bell Lost

Coach John Robison's Viking cagers will hit the hardwood Saturday night at Augusta to inaugurate the final basketball season for Newell High School. Next year will see a team combined of players from Newell, Chester and New Cumberland high schools as the first team to represent the new senior high school being built at Pughtown.

Newell will oppose Southside in the first action this year on its home floor next Tuesday.

OUT OF 19 candidates for the team veteran coach Robison sees his team shaping up with four juniors and a senior, all returning lettermen. Juniors Sam Simmons, Jim Johnson, Terry Robison and Tom Franczek, along with senior Fred Farrell won their spurs last year. Joe Hall, another senior, is also a returning letterman expected to see action. Denny Smith, a non-letter winner last year, is also expected to see action.

Robison will enjoy some height on his starting five with Simmons, Johnson, Ferrell and Franczek all near or over the 6-foot mark.

SORELY missed from last year's squad as the Vikings prepare for a 19-game schedule is last year's center and the holder of the school's four-year scoring record, Mickey Staley who is on the freshman squad at Bethany College.

Dave Bell, who combined with Staley to give Newell the best one-two scoring punch in the district last year, has been ruled scholastically ineligible and probably won't see any action this season. He averaged over 20 points per game last season.

THIS year's varsity will be out to improve on last year's 13-7 record in regular season play. Newell lost their sectional opener in tournament play to Bethany, a team they had defeated twice during the regular season. A new innovation in this year's schedule will be a 2:30 afternoon game with arch rival Chester at the latter's gym on Tuesday, Dec. 11. The afternoon contest will enable many of the students who are transported to school by bus to attend the game.

Season tickets are on sale at the school. Adult season tickets are $4 for nine home games while students may see the same number of home games for $1.50. There is also a special adult season ticket good for any five home games for $2.50.

Here is the Newell High School 1962-63 basketball schedule.

Rebels Open Friday

Kress, Coburn Are Lone Regulars At Crestview

Big Jim Kress, a 6-foot-7 scoring machine who was one of the leading point makers in the district last season is back to give Crestview a big lift during the 1962-63 campaign.

Kress is joined by Allen Coburn as they represent the only provide a fine nucleus on which to build around. With Kress leading the way last season, Crestview reeled off 10 straight victories and was ranked among the top 10 schools in the Class A ranks for several weeks.

The Rebels open their season this weekend traveling to North Lima Friday night then shooting over to Greenford for a Saturday night encounter.

While Kress and Coburn are the only seniors, Weber will probably have to draw his other three starters from the junior class. He has seven junior prospects on hand including Dave Baker a 6-footer, Bob Coppack 5-foot-9, Phil Henderson and Jim Houpp both 5-foot-7, Jack Hoff, 5-foot-8, Ron Knight 5-foot-11 and Ron Taylor 5-foot-10.

Two sophomores who have gained a shot at varsity berths include Keith Baker at 5-foot-11 and Ricky Dicken 5-foot-8. Larry Athey, a 6-foot-1 freshman has also drawn some consideration.

Starting the season on the road for the first two games, Crestview's first home contest comes Dec. 7 against Western Reserve.

- The 1962-63 schedule follows:
- Nov. 30 North Lima away
 - Dec. 1 Greenford home

Redlegs Trade Rojas To Phils For Jim Owens

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds acquired right-handed pitcher Jim Owens from the Philadelphia Phillies today for rookie infielder Octavio (Cookie) Rojas.

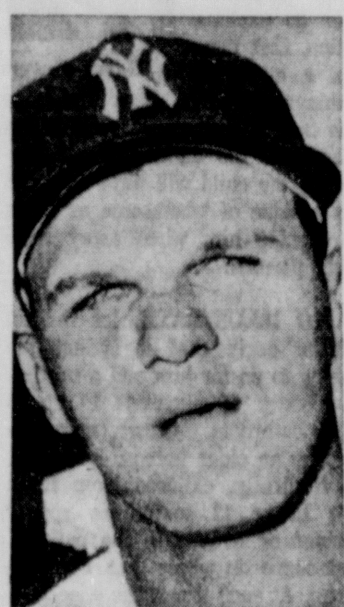

It was the second trade completed by the Reds within 24 hours at the baseball minor league convention here. Monday night the Reds sent rookie first baseman Rogelio Alvarez to Washington for first baseman Harry Bright.

Owens, who will be 29 in January, had a 2-4 record this past season, his sixth with the Phillies. In 1959, however, he won 12 and lost 12 with the same club.

Rojas, a 23-year-old Cuban, who plays second, third, or shortstop, divided the 1962 season between Cincinnati and the Dallas-Fort Worth club of the American Association.

Yanks Deal 'Moose' For LA Pitcher

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Yankees, two of baseball's powers, were squarely on the spot today following a daring major inter-league trade that sent first baseman Bill Skowron to the Dodgers in exchange for front-line pitcher Stan Williams.

Yankee manager Ralph Houk admitted he was loath to part with Skowron, 31, who helped bring seven pennants in nine years to the New York club. He said it was a trade the Yankees had to make.

"I felt we just had to get another established starting pitcher if we were to win the pennant again next year," he said. "Trading Skowron was one of the toughest decisions I ever had to make."

The departure of Williams, 26, who won 14 games for the Dodgers last season, was the first move by Dodger general manager E. J. Bavasi, who had vowed to make changes on the club that blew the National League flag in a playoff after going into the final week with a four-game lead.

"We're not through trading by any means," Bavasi promised. "We're going to make a few more before the meetings are ended."

Bavasi hailed Skowron as "the guy who can supply us with the much-needed right-handed punch we lacked last year." Skowron slammed 23 home runs and drove in 80 runs last season.

Williams figures to team up with southpaw Whitey Ford and right-handers Ralph Terry, Bill Stafford and young Jim Bouton to form a five-man starting staff for the Yankees.

In a trade of much lesser impact, the Washington Senators sent Harry Bright, a catcher-first baseman, to the Cincinnati Reds for rookie first baseman Rogelio Alvarez. Bright, 33, a right-handed hitter, slammed 17 home runs and drove in 67 runs in 113 games for the last-place Senators.

Alvarez, 24, was the Pacific Coast League All-Star first baseman, where he hit .318, slammed 18 home runs and drove in 75 runs for the San Diego club.

Penn State Takes Gator Bowl Offer

By The Associated Press
Penn State and Villanova have joined the rapidly expanding list of teams which have accepted bids to post-season college football bowl games.

Penn State (9-1), ranked ninth in the nation and best in the East, voted Monday night to play in the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., Dec. 29. Faculty representatives approved the team vote a few hours later.

Villanova (7-2) accepted a bid to be the host team in the Liberty Bowl in Philadelphia, Dec. 15. An opponent was expected to be named today, with Oregon State the most likely choice.

Penn State players voted overwhelmingly to accept the Gator Bowl spot, their action coming only a few hours after the Nittany Lions had been named winner of the Lambert Trophy, emblematic of the major college championship in the East.

Their bowl opponent has not been named, but Duke, Oregon State and the winner of this week's Florida-Miami game are believed under consideration.

Oregon State's Baker Is Coaches' QB Pick

RADNOR, Pa. (AP)—Terry Baker, Oregon State's spectacular quarterback, and two other West Coast players were named today to the 1962 college football all-star team picked by members of the American Football Coaches Association.

The other West Coasters were tackle Steve Barnett of Oregon and end Hal Bedsole of Southern California. They were the first Pacific Coast players chosen by the coaches since 1959.

Tom Myers of Northwestern was voted sophomore of the year by the coaches.

The First Team Ends — Hal Bedsole, Southern California, and Pat Richter, Wisconsin.

Tackles — Bobby Bell, Minnesota, and Steve Barnett, Oregon. Guards — Johnny Treadwell, Texas, and Rufus Guthrie, Georgia Tech.

Center — Lee Roy Jordan, Alabama. Quarterback — Terry Baker, Oregon State.

Halfbacks — Jerry Stovall, Louisiana State, and Roger Kochman, Penn State. Fullback — George Saines, Michigan State.

Results of the voting by more than 500 coaches were announced by Bill Murray, AFCA president

Curtice Fired At Stanford

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—Cactus Jack Curtice, elected last year's president of the Football Coaches Association for his gridiron leadership, has been fired as Stanford head coach.

School authorities wouldn't comment, but The Associated Press learned Monday that the man who had known nothing but coaching success prior to coming to Stanford has been bounced after five years on the job.

An authoritative source revealed that Stanford authorities had decided to oust Curtice despite a 30-13 victory over arch foe California last Saturday that climaxed a 5-5 season, his best with the Indians.

Over-all, however, Curtice had won only 14 while losing 36 at the Stanford helm.

At Utah, West Texas State and Texas Western, Curtice compiled an 81-49-7 record.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Fifty-five places in the West Palm Beach Open Golf Tournament go up for grabs today and 140 pros and 30 amateurs will go after them.

In addition, 95 players were exempt from qualifying and the tournament, which starts Thursday following a pro-am tournament, has drawn 11 of the top 20 money winners.

It will mark the return of U.S. Open champion Jack Nicklaus after a two-month layoff. Gay Brewer is defending champion. Herman Schlarau turned in the best practice round Monday when he toured the par 72 West Palm Beach Country Club course in 33-35 for a 4-under.

Staubach, Donnelly Are Key Men

Midshipmen To Pin Hopes On Sophs In Service Tilt

By HERB THOMPSON

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Navy will be relying heavily on sophomore talent Saturday in an Army-Navy football game in which youngsters seldom star.

Quarterback Roger Staubach and fullback Pat Donnelly are the squad's offensive leaders and Fred Marlin, a linebacker on the defensive team, is the leading tackler. All are sophomores.

So are ends Neil Henderson and Doug McCarty of the offensive unit, offensive halfback Kip Paskevich, defensive tackle Jim Freeman, defensive back Steve Szabo and offensive center Bruce Kenton.

Coach Wayne Hardin admits this is an unusual quota of sophomores to throw into the annual service classic at Philadelphia, "but they've been doing the job and we're going with them," he said.

All of the sophs played their way into the positions they now hold on a team which started out with veteran talent.

Staubach, brilliant as a passer and runner on Navy's plebe team last season, didn't get the starting quarterback assignment from senior Ron Klemick until after Navy's third game.

Since then he has completed 56 of 85 pass attempts for 778 yards and five touchdowns, rolled up 231 yards rushing and scored five touchdowns.

Donnelly, who has held the starting fullback assignment all season, has rushed for 321 yards and an average 3.3 per carry and scored five touchdowns to share the scoring leadership with Staubach of 30 points each.

Staubach Makes Navy Go, Says Army Coach

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—Don't try to sell Army football coach Paul Dietzel on the idea that Saturday's game with Navy is the only one on the Cadets' schedule.

"No, sir," Dietzel grinned today before sending his squad through a workout. "Let's put it this way. We have played one-half of our season. Now we play the other half."

Dietzel, of course, is under no pressure to beat Navy. He is working on the first year of a five-year contract after coming here from Louisiana State, and reportedly told Army brass not to expect miracles at the start. Dale Hall, his predecessor was fired after Navy beat Army for the third straight time last year.

The Cadets know the key to success in this game. They've got to stop Middle quarterback Roger Staubach. To hear Dietzel tell it, Staubach can do everything but erect the goalposts before the game.

"He's fantastic, that Staubach," said Dietzel. "We have scouted Navy in all games this year, and we have seen pictures of their games. I can honestly say I know more about Navy than any other team in the country except Army. Staubach is the man who makes Navy go."

Warfield Is 1st Team Pick

Tackle, End Unanimous Choices On Big 10 Team

By JOE MOOSHL

Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO (AP)—Tackle Bobby Bell of Minnesota and end Pat Richter of Wisconsin were unanimous choices for the 1962 All-Big Ten football team named today by the Associated Press.

With Bell being a unanimous selection for the second straight year, Minnesota placed three men on the first team—all coming from the Gopher line which was recognized as one of the best in the nation.

Other Gophers making the team were guard Julian Hook and end John Campbell. Joining Richter, who also made the team last year, was the other half of champion Wisconsin's tremendous passing combination, quarterback Ron Vanderkelen.

Michigan State also grabbed two berths with fullback George Saimes of Canton, Ohio and center Dave Behrman, both repeaters from the 1961 teams. Rounding out the first team were guard Jack Cvercko of Northwestern, tackle Don Brumm of Purdue and halfbacks Marv Woodson of Indiana and Paul Warfield of Ohio State. Illinois, Iowa and Michigan were shut out.

Relaxation Called Key To Enjoying Life

Sit back and relax, thin girls, while we take a fresh approach to gaining needed pounds. With a normal amount of padding to cushion nerve endings, day to day living is more fun.

If you are free to gain, healthwise, but nothing you eat adds curves, track down how you are squandering calories. It could be that a hectic pace and too little rest are to blame. But for many thin girls, heightened muscular tension is the real stumbling block. Tension hinders gaining in so many ways! This is a pressure age. Under strain you thin girls can't eat enough, for tension affects the muscles of the stomach. You feel full after a few mouthfuls and cannot force yourself to eat. All of this shows the importance of relaxing, especially at mealtimes. If the waitress ignores you, refuse to get "burned up." Smile at her, it's wonderfully relaxing...and it's your gain.

IT DOES LITTLE good to say "just relax", it's not that simple. But when you know that tension is excess muscle contraction and that relaxing is muscle limpsness, you have the key.

Try relaxing right where you are, in a restaurant, on a bus riding to work, riding home or even waiting for the red-light to change. Is your brow furrowed? Let go, then deliberately tense the brow again. Why? This time, aware of what you are doing, you are able to release the tension.

Much of our tension is on the subconscious level. That is, we are unaware that we are frowning, tensing the jaw muscles or gripping the pencil. By consciously tensing various muscle groups, then deliberately releasing the tension, we are in control. This can't be done in one easy lesson, it takes practice.

With daily practice in tensing and relaxing the various muscle groups, tension tends to become conscious, and relaxation unconscious. Wonderful!

Ask at the library for a book on relaxing techniques. You will find "Release From Nervous Tension" by Dr. Harold Fink, helpful. Another is "Relax and Live" by Kennedy.

IF YOU ARE in the grip of an emotional upset, before you can release muscle tensions you may need to free your mind by talking out your troubles with someone who can view the problem objectively.

Unhealthy emotions can build up unbearable tensions. The late Dr. John Shindler pointed this out in his excellent book "How To Live 365 Days A Year".

Good mental hygiene helps you to live in a more relaxed, happy way.

Vandal Destroys 2nd Tree By Cutting Bark

A second tree in the same East End neighborhood has been destroyed by girdling — cutting the bark on the trunk to shut off the food supply to the upper branches, police were told Monday night. Earl Neiser, 521 Wedgewood St., told the department a maple sapling on his property was destroyed by a vandal sometime between 2 p. m. Sunday and 6 p. m. yesterday. The bark was cut with some sort of sharp instrument, he said.

Similar vandalism was reported to police Sunday by Nicholas Zupic, 1705 Etruria St., who said an oak sapling on his property was destroyed.

Junior Editors Quiz on ARCHAEOLOGY

QUESTION: What is the mystery of Easter Island?

ANSWER: When on Easter Sunday, 1722, Dutch Admiral Roggeveen discovered a lonely speck of land in the South Pacific, he called it Easter Island. The inhabitants seemed much like those on other Pacific Islands but what was different was the presence of about 600 huge stone statues, some 40 feet tall and weighing 70 tons. There were also wooden tablets with what looked like writing carved on them. The inhabitants knew little about the statues or the writing. For many years the staring stony faces of the statues have hidden a mystery which has only been partly dispelled. Who made them? There is a quarry of volcanic rock from which they were evidently cut but how could they have been moved? Many experts feel the statues were made by Polynesian ancestors of the present population; their purpose, it is believed, was to honor the dead. In 1955, Thor Heyerdahl led an expedition to the island. He found a few natives who understood how the statues were moved; by prying them up with poles while walls of small stones were built up from underneath. Heyerdahl believes that Easter Island was originally settled, not from the west, but from South America.

FOR YOU TO DO: The mysterious script has not yet been deciphered. But scientists keep trying. Watch for news reports on this, and read Heyerdahl's book, "Aku Aku."

Irene Cohen of Savannah, Ga., wins the weekly prize of a set of Britannica Junior Encyclopedias for this question. You may win one too, or $10. Mail your question to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

How Can I?
By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. How can I shorten a too-long electric cord without the necessity of cutting and splicing it?
A. Wind around a pencil, beginning at the plug and winding upward until it is the desired length. Leave wound for about 24 hours. Repeat about once monthly, and the resultant spiral of cord will stay put and keep the excess length down to a minimum.

Q. How can I use walnuts and figs as a filling for sandwiches?
A. Grind and mix one cup of walnuts, one cup of dried figs, and one large apple. Add a teaspoon of sugar and moisten with a little butter.

Q. How can I restore and revitalize the color in a pair of multi-hued shoes?
A. You can often do a fine job of this by applying some liquid food coloring with a damp cloth.

Q. What can I do when a freshly-baked cake sticks to the bottom of the pan and threatens to break to pieces when removed?
A. Turn the pan upside down and lay a cloth wrung out of water on the bottom of it. After a few minutes, the cake should come out without crumbling.

Sewage Plant Plans Cleared At Salineville

SALINEVILLE — Ohio Health Department approval of tentative plans and two proposed sites for a village sewage disposal plant was announced by Mayor Stanley Fitch at a meeting of Council Monday night.

Mayor Fitch said the state department has approved the sites in the East End near the present dump.

In other business, Council rejected a request by Dave Feldman to store scrap metal in his used car lot on E. Main St. Feldman obtained rails, pipes and other metal from the Hirst Coal Co.

Council turned down the request because, members indicated, such items would mar the appearance of the village.

Discussion was held on a request by the Kiretta Excavating Co. of Millport to haul red dog over an improved street en route from a mine. Council authorized such hauling if a bond is posted, and officials are to confer with the firm.

Mayor Fitch agreed to study a West End site where Howard Green of West End complained loads of dirt were piled during recent road improvement work.

Councilman Donald Lewis reported a barn sought to store the Civil Defense truck has proved unsuitable. Mayor Fitch will confer with firemen on plans to house the truck, which has been placed in the custody of the village.

In other action, Council authorized a survey of costs of welding a crack in the boiler of the fire station steam heating system. Other repair measures for the fire station were tabled pending the cost study.

Discussion was held on a request by Earl White of the Columbiana County Refuse Disposal Co. to solicit customers in the village.

Mayor Fitch plans to confer with Michael Maher, present hauler.

Council approved a resolution hiring Police Chief Roy Lewis as regular chief. Lewis was hired at $225 a month plus rent at the Village Hall apartment and utilities, the same conditions under which he was employed on a probation basis in May.

Council will meet Dec. 10.

Ohio Youth Faces Charge Of Murder

IRONTON, Ohio (AP)—A 19-year-old youth faces a charge of first-degree murder in the fatal shooting of a church choir director who the youth said was "mean to his wife and three daughters."

Lawrence County Carl E. Rose said Robert Cox has admitted shooting Paul Brammer, 41, while Brammer was in his parked car in the driveway of his home in the Proctorville area Sunday night. Cox had lived with the Brammer family for eight or nine months.

According to the sheriff, Cox shot Brammer as he returned from the grocery store, put the .22-caliber rifle in a basement gunrack and then "discovered" the body in the parked car.

The family, thinking Brammer had suffered a heart attack, called the operator of a funeral home. The mortician discovered the bullet and called deputies.

Farmer Fatally Hurt

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — An elderly Post Town area farmer riding a wagon behind a tractor fell off and suffered fatal injuries Monday. Butler County sheriff's deputies said the wagon passed over Hugh C. Barnes, 76, before the tractor driver realized what had happened.

Salary Hikes Approved For Lisbon Crews

LISBON — Crews of the water and cemetery departments received a Christmas gift in the form of a $25 monthly increase in salary, beginning Jan. 1, when Council adopted the pay ordinance on third reading Monday evening.

Both departments have their own operating funds but must obtain Council's approval of major expenditures. The new pay schedules follow:

Board of Public Affairs — Water superintendent, $415; water works plant operator, $385, and sewage disposal plant operator, $385.

Cemetery Board — cemetery superintendent, $375, and superintendent's aide, $325.

One clerk serves both boards. Under the new setup, he will receive $325 from the Board of Public Affairs and $60 from the Cemetery Board for a total salary of $385.

Clyde B. Pike, president, and council members, Mrs. Blanche Neill, Robert Kelm and Fred Steele voted for passage. Councilmen Joseph Dornon and Raymond Dixon were absent.

An increase in property valuations and a new levy will mean over $20,000 more for village operations in 1963, Council was told.

Members adopted a resolution accepting the amounts and rates as determined by the Budget Commission, and authorizing the necessary levies and certifying them to the county auditor.

Ray Hempstead, clerk-treasurer, said the auditor's office informed him Lisbon's valuation after reappraisal is approximately $6,948,000, a gain of $325,000.

The auditor's figures show that the village will receive $36,829 from real estate taxes for 1963 operations, including $19,457 from a 3-mill operating levy voted on its third attempt. Increased valuation dropped the levy to 2.8 mills, Hempstead said.

Inside the 10-mill limitation, the general fund will receive $17,372, or $1,710 more than from the same source this year.

The new levy return, plus the extra money available inside the 10-mill limitation will mean a total of $21,167 more for the general fund next year.

William B. Martin, secretary of the volunteer fire department, listed a payroll of $449 for the last half of 1962, including $317 for fire calls and $132 for ambulance calls. Council approved and ordered it paid.

Next meeting is Monday, Dec. 10, at 7:30 p.m. Since the last meeting of the year falls on Christmas Eve, Council agreed to meet on Thursday, Dec. 27, to close out the books for the year.

City CD Council Sends Officials To Area Meeting

The East Liverpool Civil Defense Council sent three officials to an area workshop program on fallout shelters Monday afternoon at Youngstown.

The city organization was represented by Herbert Combs, director, Edward Nelson, his deputy, and Mrs. Edna Sweeney, secretary. Mrs. Combs also attended.

The delegation heard a discussion by John H. Fisher, a professor at Carnegie Institute of Technology at Pittsburgh. The meeting at the Ohio Edison Co. building in Youngstown was arranged by Robert Hay, Youngstown CD director.

The government's theme now is "stop planning and start building shelters," Fisher said. He said the government is training instructors to hold classes on shelter construction for architects and engineers as one way of encouraging building of more shelters.

Fisher explained the various rays dispersed by an atomic explosion, terming gamma rays the most dangerous. He explained the gradual rate of decline in danger from fallout and said it would be safe for families to emerge from shelters two weeks after an atomic explosion. Slides were shown on various types of shelters.

$44,997 Involved 'No' Vote Delays Fund Ordinance

CITY COUNCIL GAVE first reading Monday night to an amended appropriation ordinance providing a total of $44,997 in year-end allocations and transfers for various municipal departments.

A dissent by Councilman Frank Duffy, who objected to a $1,745 allocation to hire an expert to aid the city rate fight with the Ohio Valley Gas Co., left the ordinance one vote short of the six required for immediate enactment under suspension of rules. It will be presented for second reading tonight at 7:30.

Nearly half the total, $21,825, is earmarked for the water works fund. Other major amounts are: General fund, $7,554; safety fund, $2,725; service fund, $1,310; garbage fund, $4,814; street department, $3,567; and municipal swimming pool, $50.

THE LONG series of allocations and transfers traditionally is made near the end of each year to make up the difference between amounts appropriated at the beginning of the 12-month period and the sums actually required.

The shifts were worked out Wednesday night in a conference between the Council Finance Committee, Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate and Solicitor Joseph W. Cooper.

Appropriations for the water department are: Office incidentals, $300; office stationery and supplies, $500; filtration operation employees, $600; pumping operation supplies, $800; distribution maintenance employees, $6,700.

DISTRIBUTION maintenance supplies, $3,000; extraordinary purposes (new meters), $500, and (reservoir repairs), $2,000; transfers to bond retirement fund, $2,625, and Public Employees Retirement fund, $4,800.

In addition, $3,600 was transferred to the general fund from the water works fund to reimburse the general fund for state examiner's charges deducted by the county auditor's office. The city is required to pay for the periodic audit of all its books and records by the Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices.

TRANSFERRED from the income tax fund and allocated to the general fund were:

Council, utility rate consultant, $1,743; auditor's incidentals, $300; auditor's stationery, $100; solicitor's incidentals, $300; legal advertising, ordinances and resolutions, $300; Municipal Court incidentals, $600, and Public Employees Retirement System, $4,221.

The appropriation for the utility rate consultant is an item on which Council agreed tentatively at its meeting Nov. 19. The sum is to pay the fee of an Akron expert to help Council negotiate with the Ohio Valley Gas Co. on the question of a new rate for East Liverpool.

ALLOCATED to the safety fund from the income tax fund were: General administration, $60; police department, uniform allowances, $50; school crossing guards, $600; fire department, lands and buildings, $800; new parking meters, $900 and parking meter attendants' incidentals, $315.

For the service fund, also allocated from income tax revenue, Council provided: General administration, $60; street lighting contracts, $1,200, and public parks, incidentals, $50.

FOR THE garbage fund, the allocations are: Removal equipment and supplies, $1,200; disposal supplies, $300; Public Employees Retirement System, $3,110, and payment on note and interest for truck "pumper" body, $207.

The ordinance shifted $774 from the general fund to the street department fund to correct an error made in using the money for secretarial purposes in the mayor's office. The $774 originally was allocated to the general fund out of income tax revenue.

In addition, the ordinance allocated $4,341 to the street department from income tax receipts and provided that $4,041 of the amount will be used for the Public Employees Retirement System, with the other $300 going for seal-coating materials and supplies.

SINCE the ordinance contains an emergency clause, at least six affirmative votes would have been required for immediate enactment. With Councilman Robert W. Sample absent and Duffy dissenting, the vote was 5-1.

Favorable votes were cast by Councilmen George E. Willshaw, Edward Massey, S. James Welch, Kenneth C. Berg and Floyd Murray.

Twenty minutes of discussion and debate preceded the vote on the ordinance, most of it concerning the $1,743 item to hire the rate consultant.

Although the appropriation listed 35 items in all, Duffy was required to vote against the entire ordinance to oppose the allocation for the rate expert. A negative vote cannot be cast on a single item.

AT THE OUTSET of the debate, Duffy pointed out that he opposed the proposal to hire the expert when it was presented at a caucus session at the last meeting.

"I voted against it the other night and I'll vote against it again," he said. "Take that out and I will vote for the ordinance. I don't see why we need this man's opinion."

Massey told Duffy that the city "is only hiring a man to represent us the same way you would hire an attorney to represent you in a civil case."

"If it goes to the Public Utilities Commission and we don't have a man who knows the inside track, it's possible we could get a bad shake on this," Massey added. "The people might criticize us for not getting proper representation for the city."

"WE'RE NOT considering the ordinance to hire the consultant," President Charles N. Edwards told Duffy. "This is only to transfer money into the proper fund. It's already been agreed to hire the expert."

Duffy replied that no legislation was passed to hire the rate expert. The question never has been on the floor at a regular meeting, he added.

"That has nothing to do with this appropriation," Berg replied. He pointed out the question of hiring the expert will be settled in a separate piece of legislation. Willshaw was next to speak.

"The idea of the consultant is this: There has been a lot of questions in the minds of the councilmen if the company is entitled to an increase," he said. "Also there has been a question of increased costs the company claims and whether or not they are proper. That's the man's job — to determine if the figures are correct."

"IF WE sit back and don't do anything, we won't know what's going on," Willshaw added. "I think it's a smart move."

"I've voted several times against giving the gas company a raise," Murray said. "At the first of the year, I agreed to go along with the other Ohio Valley cities to fight this case before the PUC, if necessary. If I disagree with the rate expert, I'll vote against his suggestions."

"I'll vote for the ordinance," Murray continued. "We're not experts. I think we need professional advice."

That ended the discussion of the rate expert's role. Willshaw, as chairman of the finance committee, then took the floor again to explain some of the other items in the appropriation measure.

THE VARIOUS items for the Public Employees Retirement System add up to about $16,000, he said. The city is delinquent in its payment to the state and faces a 5 per cent penalty if the money is not turned over promptly. Willshaw said.

Because of confusion when the state changed the city's payments from semi-annual to quarterly, the PER funds were not paid for the last half of 1961, he said.

He said the $600 item for school crossing guards covers the payroll for a new watchman named late in the last school term for Anderson Blvd., plus another hired a week ago for W. 3rd and Jefferson Sts.

The $900 item for new parking meters represents regular replacement costs, Willshaw said. Rather than undertake a major expenditure by buying a large number of meters, the worn-out devices will be replaced a few at a time, he said.

vote for passage under suspension of rules, resulting in a 5-1 split.

Edwards announced the motion had failed and the ordinance had moved only through first reading. Willshaw moved for a special meeting tonight at 7 to place the ordinance on second reading, but it lost for lack of a second. Several members said they would be unable to attend tonight.

It appeared last night that second reading of the ordinance would be delayed until Council's regular meeting next Monday night.

However, Willshaw contacted the members after adjournment and secured an agreement for the special session tonight. Edwards issued the informal call for the meeting this morning.

Fall Cleanup Drive Slated

Plans for a citywide fall cleanup campaign Saturday were outlined at a meeting of Wellsville's Cleanup and Beautification Committee Monday noon at Meade's Restaurant.

The siren on the fire station will be sounded Saturday morning at 9 to notify residents that the campaign is under way.

Residents are asked to have their yards raked, the sidewalks swept and all papers and tree clippings gathered and in containers so they can be collected.

The drive is being conducted specifically to rid the community of the tree leaves which are in danger of clogging storm sewers.

The committee, headed by Robert Andrews, minister of the First Christian Church, urged residents to have the yard and garden refuse in containers.

The collection will be by wards. Each ward has been assigned a certain number of trucks to be manned by volunteer labor.

Boy Scouts, some members of the committee, Jaycees, ministers and representatives of various civic organizations are to participate.

Andrews said additional trucks are needed. Anyone with a vehicle may contact Andrews at LE. 2-3802.

Both Motorists Cited By Patrol For Crash

Both drivers were cited after a two-car crash on Route 7 three and six-tenths miles south of Wellsville Monday at 6:50 a. m.

The Winterville State Highway Patrol said the crash involved cars driven by Thomas M. Redmond, 28, of 1901 Nevada St., Wellsville, and J. A. Belles, 25, of Hammondsville.

Both were headed south. Redmond started to make a left turn as Bolles began to pass. Redmond was cited for driving without an operator's permit and Bolles for passing at an intersection.

Both will receive hearings Friday before Judge Helen Huntsman of Toronto.

Leaders, Gov.-Elect Rhodes Digging Grave For 'DIED'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Some 40 business and legislative leaders and Gov.-elect James A. Rhodes have begun to dig a grave for DIED — the Department of Industrial and Economic Development.

The "diggings" also served as a foundation for Rhodes to carry out his new jobs and industrial development program for Ohio.

Rhodes' plan calls for establishing an authority to create 200,000 jobs through a revenue bond financing program. The authority would replace DIED, set up by Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

James Nance of Cleveland's Central National Bank, serving as chairman, called for selection of a committee to report by Dec. 7 on taxation and other problems influencing industrial growth in the state. George E. Wilson of the Akron Area Development Committee was named vice chairman. Others members of the committee are expected to be named Wednesday.

Rhodes told the group Monday his administration expects to meet the challenge of other industrial states in force.

"We cannot continue to drift in the field of economic development," Rhodes said. "I, as governor of Ohio, want to be this state's No. 1 salesman."

"The most important thing before us is the creation of jobs and economic growth."

After discussion, Nance listed these major areas for committee study and recommendation:

—Organization of an Industrial Development Authority with a research tie-in.

—Provision for capital funds for the authority.

—Analysis of Ohio's tax and industrial climate and getting a program that will keep industry in the state and bring in new plants.

—Provision for new sites and facilities for new and expanding plants.

—Determining the place of research in the development authority.

Legislators attending the meeting included House Speaker Roger Cloud, R-Logan, and Reps. Terry E. Drake, R-Crawford, and D. O. Taber, R-Gallia. Drake and Taber are expected to introduce legislation to create the proposed authority.
